Tunisia Changes Mapped

French, Nationalists Draw 6-Point Plan To Bring Eventual Home Rule There

PARIS (AP)—France's government and Tunisian nationalists laid down a six-point plan today to bring eventual home rule and possible peace to the troubled North African protectorate.

The agreement in principle, reached after midnight by French Premier Edgar Faure and Tunisian Premier Tahar Ben Ammar, must still be worked out in detail before a final text is drawn up.

Then it must be approved by the aged Bey of Tunis—Tunisia's nominal ruler—and the balky French Assembly.

The Bey's approval is considered certain. But in the Assembly the agreement is certain to encounter opposition from members sympathetic to the French colonists who constitute a powerful minority in Tunisia.

The accord also is expected to run up against a strong undercurrent of French national pride, loath to yield still more of France's prewar glory of empire.

Ending seven months of futile negotiations, the agreement came just before the agreed deadline—the month-long holy season of Ramadan when the Moslem faithful suspend most business.

Tunisian sources said the agreement had cleared one important hurdle. They reported it has won the approval of Habib Bourguiba, exiled leader of the nationalist Neo Destour party which has led the agitation for Tunisian independence. Bourguiba, under house arrest in France for some months, conferred yesterday with Faure.

The Tunisian peninsula, wrested from the Phoenicians by Arab tribesmen in the seventh century, was most of the time an Islamic monarchy until the ruling Bey put it under French "protection" in 1883.

Ever since the pact with France was sealed, Tunisian nationalists have been seeking at least a measure of independence.

In a move to end the bloody wave of terror, former Premier Pierre Mendes-France offered last July to give Tunisia a measure of internal autonomy and power to negotiate with France for eventual sovereignty.

Cost of Living Holding Steady In Fourth Month

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government reported today that living costs held steady in March for the fourth straight month. This was described as the longest period of stability since the beginning of World War II and perhaps in modern times.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported its living cost index for March was unchanged at 144.3 percent of the 1947-49 average.

At this level it cost about $1.14 to buy what it required a dollar to purchase in the 1947-49 era.

Mrs. Arneson Joy Wickens, acting labor statistics commissioner, said there apparently was little change in living costs in the current month of April.

She said the March figures represent the first time since the bureau started keeping monthly living cost data in 1941 that the index stayed unchanged for as long as four months.

Before 1941 living costs were calculated quarterly but estimated monthly. It's been about 40 years, Mrs. Wickens said, that even the estimated stayed at the same level for four consecutive months.

In Response to Turkey--

Nehru Blasts NATO As Colony Protector

BANDUNG, Indonesia (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru assailed the North Atlantic Treaty Organization today as a protector of colonialism. He urged his own neutralist policy upon other delegates to the 29-nation Asian-African conference.

"We should not take any sides in the cold war," declared the Indian leader, who has been trying to keep the first international conference of the Asian-African countries from bogging down in an ideological argument.

Nehru's blast came in response to a statement from Turkish delegate Fatin Rustu Zolli that "Turkey would not have survived (Russian expansion) and we would not be at this conference today" if she had not joined NATO.

"We have heard what Turkey has to say," Nehru responded. "That is one side of the case. The other case would be presented here. But India does not stand for either side. We do not approve the Communist or the anti-Communist powers. We think that they are both wrong and that their policies are leading us to the brink of war."

The Indian leader contended that the 14-nation organization headed by the United States, Great Britain and France is "one of the most powerful protectors of colonialism, though it was created for self-defense."

Nehru spoke strongly in favor of coexistence.

The conference ran into its first big deadlock today in a bitter argument over charges of "communist colonialism."

A subcommittee, after arguing on the Communist issue more than two hours, finally adjourned until tomorrow. The issue at stake was a move by non-Communist powers to put the conference on record as condemning "subversion" as well as old style colonialism.

Louis Wolfson Concedes Loss Of Ward Fight

CHICAGO (AP)—Louis E. Wolfson virtually conceded today that his drive to gain control of Montgomery Ward & Co. had fallen short of its goal.

As the balloting for directors of the huge mail order house began, a newsman asked Wolfson: "How does it look to you now?"

"We came in with three seats," Wolfson said, "and the rest depended upon what happened here. It looks as if they'll (the Avery management) stay in control."

Five seats are necessary for control of the nine-man board of directors.

However, addressing stockholders a few moments later, Wolfson declared: "This company is going to start to go from now on."

Assured of a directorship for himself, at least, on the basis of minimum estimates from both sides, Wolfson said he will work to increase dividends, improve worker morale and bring in more customers.

Wolfson, grasping a mobile microphone, turned to the grey-haired Avery, seated at a desk about 40 feet away, and said:

"I respect you as a man and I respect your age."

He added that Avery did a "swell job" when he took over control of the company during the depression years of the 30s.

Avery sat impassively. Later he said he was unable to hear Wolfson's words over the amplifying system. "I have listened to a jumble I can't understand. I find myself unable to hear," he said.

Wolfson spoke out on his chances after the crucial annual meeting of company shareholders got off to a stormy start.

There was squabbling over procedure and quips from the gallery when the rival forces nominated their director candidates.

The count of the vote, which will determine whether 81-year-old Sewell Avery retains the dominant control he has held over the company for 24 years or lose it to Wolfson, will not be known for two or three weeks.

Harriman Employs Corsi

Revives Committee On Refugees; Says Ike Was 'Insensitive To People's Needs'

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Democratic Gov. Averell Harriman revived the State Committee on Refugees today and named Edward Corsi as one of its 17 members.

Corsi was fired April 10 by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, a fellow Republican, as a consultant on refugee problems. Corsi called it "shabby and un-Christian treatment."

Harriman said last night that Corsi's ouster showed that the Eisenhower administration was "insensitive" to the needs of the people.

Speaking at a dinner of the Monroe County Democratic Committee in Rochester, Harriman said President Eisenhower and Dulles gave Corsi no support "when the weather got a little rough."

"All Mr. Corsi tried to do was carry out the President's pledge" on the refugee program, the governor declared.

"When he went to Washington, he took it seriously when Mr. Dulles praised his ability and called him 'my very good friend.' But as soon as the weather got a little rough, what happened?" Harriman asked.

"Leaving on Mr. Dulles turned out to be about like leaving on a reed. And what about the President? All Mr. Corsi got from him—and all the people of America got—was silence," Harriman asserted.

Harriman disclosed he had offered Corsi the state appointment shortly after he was dismissed in Washington.

Corsi headed the unsalaried committee while serving as New York industrial commissioner in the Republican administration of former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey. The committee expired when Dewey left office last Dec. 31. It is designed to help place refugees in jobs and houses.

Different Opinions On Reason Thai Envoy Skipped Visit to Zoo

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Why didn't Ambassador Pote Sarasin from Thailand complete a scheduled visit to the St. Louis zoo to inspect a troupe of eight baby elephants, recently immigrated from his homeland?

Too undignified, said some officers of the greater St. Louis branch of the American Association for the United Nations, the group that had the ambassador in tow yesterday.

Other members of the group asserted Sarasin passed up the projected zoo trip for lack of time.

"That's just because they made it work out that way," said still others.

In any event, the ambassador spent the afternoon attending a tea at Washington University instead of visiting the performing pachyderms.

"The ambassador missed something," said Zoo Director George P. Vierheller. "He would have had a picnic."

K. U. Students Beat Honor System Vote

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—Students at the University of Kansas are opposed to the establishment of an honor system at the university.

Returns from Wednesday's student election showed a plan for such a system, proposed by the University Veterans Organization, was defeated by a margin of 11 to 1.

URGES IMPROVED REFUGEE RELIEF HANDLING—Edward J. Corsi, left, ousted State Department refugee adviser, is shown as he told a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee that the Eisenhower Administration faces a "terrific political liability" unless it improves its handling of the Refugee Relief Program. In the center is Louis Marboeuf of the State Department and at right, Sen. William Langer of North Dakota, subcommittee chairman. State Department Security Chief R. W. Scott McLeod is shown between Marboeuf and Langer.

Communist Junius Scales Is Convicted

Carolina Chairman Is Second Person Held By Smith Act

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Communist Junius I. Scales was convicted last night for advocating overthrow of the U.S. government by force and violence.

Scales, 35-year-old Communist party chairman in the Carolinas, was the second person convicted as an individual under the Smith Act. The other was Claude Lightfoot, also an admitted Communist.

Lightfoot was convicted in Chicago last January and given five years and a $5,000 fine.

For nine days a jury of nine men and three women heard testimony and arguments on charges that:

The Communist party advocates overthrow of the government by force and violence; Scales was a member knowing this to be the party goal; and he worked to bring it about.

Scales, grand-nephew of a former North Carolina governor, maintained the calm manner he had throughout the trial as the jury filed in after 1½ hours' deliberation and announced its verdict. His lawyer said immediately that it will be appealed.

Scales said to reporters, "I reiterate my innocence."

The jury returned to the courtroom after 40 minutes' deliberation to hear part of the testimony of the testimony of Charles B. Childs, one of two government witnesses who said they were undercover informants within the party for the FBI. The jury wanted to go over his story of a school for "outstanding" young Communists he said was held, under Scales' direction, on the farm of William and Eleanor Binkley near Walnut Cove, N.C.

The other FBI undercover man was Charlotte lawyer Ralph Clontz.

The government's only other witness was ex-Communist John Lautner, who testified the party was firmly committed to violent revolution.

Strike Seen Imminent At Vaccine Producer Over Wage Contract

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Government mediators sought today to stave off a strike in a plant producing a major portion of Salk polio vaccine.

The possibility of a strike by 2,000 employees of Parke, Davis & Co., Detroit, whose contract expires May 1, developed Thursday when negotiations were broken off.

The CIO Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union, seeking a guaranteed annual wage and a 10-cent hourly pay raise, and the company blamed each other. The union, which waged a 46-day strike in 1953, emphasized it has not taken a strike vote.

Quiet returned to a big strike-bound electronics firm on Long Island after two days of brawling between pickets and nonstrikers when no attempt was made today to resume production.

New License On Sale May 1--

Police Crack Down On Cars Not Showing City Sticker

Ten Sedalia motorists have forfeited $5 bonds in police court this past week after being ticketed for failing to display the proper city vehicle license. Others are scheduled to post bond or have warrants issued against them by the middle of the week, according to Chief of Police Edgar Neighbors.

The police action of rounding up Sedalia vehicles not having proper city license started last weekend and Police Chief Neighbors has promised that "every effort" will be made to enforce the ordinance making purchase of city vehicle license mandatory.

After being ticketed the vehicle owners will have "five days of grace before a warrant will be issued by the Police Judge," Neighbors said. A similar procedure is in effect upon receipt of traffic tickets.

Four violators appeared at the police station this morning and posted their $5 bonds, two of them purchased their city stickers immediately. It was explained that unless proper license is secured, the party is subject to re-arrest.

City ordinances provide a minimum fine of $5 and a maximum fine of $100 for failing to fulfill the obligation of city license.

Start Clean-up Projects Soon; Pickup Schedule

National Clean-Up Week and Sedalia Clean-Up Week is April 25 to 30, but the waste citizen is going to get that clean-up job started this weekend so they will have the trash ready to haul when the truck comes by his house. Better start cutting out the dead from the trees and bushes, getting the old boards, the many things that are piling up in the house, yard and garages that you want to have hauled away piled up in boxes or containers, because next week is the one week of the year the city plans to take it away.

Woodrow Garrison, chairman of the Street and Alley Department, asks that the trash be put in big boxes or in some manner that it will be easily picked up and put in the trucks. Have all the containers near the alley or if you have no alley place near the curb.

The pickups will be made next week as follows: From Broadway and Ohio—south and west to the city limits on Tuesday; from Broadway and Ohio north and west on Wednesday; from Broadway and Ohio, north and east on Thursday and from Broadway and Ohio, south and east on Friday.

Everybody wanting trash picked up must have it ready on the day the truck is scheduled to be in their part of town.

Big Four Meeting Proposed

Would Have Their Ambassadors Meet In Vienna on May 2 On Austrian Treaty

LONDON (AP)—The Western Big Three proposed to Russia today that their four ambassadors in Vienna meet with Austrian representatives May 2 to complete negotiations for an Austrian independence treaty.

A British Foreign Office spokesman said the United States, Britain and France delivered notes to the Kremlin today accepting its proposal for a foreign ministers' conference to complete the long deadlocked treaty. But the West attached the condition that the ambassadors do the spadework first.

The Foreign Office simultaneously announced that American, British and French officials would start work here April 27 to lay the groundwork for another Big Four foreign ministers meeting of wider scope—particularly on the German question.

The British spokesman indicated the officials would prepare a suggested agenda for the later meeting. "West German representatives will be associated with the discussions whenever German questions are examined," he added.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov proposed the Big Four meeting April 19 following conclusion of his talks with Chancellor Julius Raab. After those talks in Moscow, he and Raab announced Russia had agreed to end the 10-year occupation of Austria while Raab had pledged that his government never would join a military alliance with a foreign power or allow foreign military bases on Austrian soil.

The job of the Big Four and Austrian representatives in Vienna, as Allied officials see it here, would be to:

1. Bring the 1949 draft Austrian treaty up to date because some of its provisions have become obsolete.

2. Spell out the new arrangements arrived at between Austria and Russia concerning reduction of Russia's reparations claims.

3. Formulate a four-power declaration to guarantee the future territorial integrity and military neutrality of an independent Austria after the treaty is signed.

Ernie Pyle's Death Was Ten Years Ago

By HAL BOYLE

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Ernie Pyle died on a far Pacific isle 10 years ago this week, as the war he hated was drawing to an end.

He now lies buried in a U.S. military cemetery in Hawaii among the servicemen whose story he told with simple eloquence. But in another sense Ernie didn't stay overseas. He is back home here forever on the campus of Indiana University, where in student days he first dreamed of winning newspaper fame.

Certainly his spirit is enshrined here. Ernie remains a living symbol to hundreds of fledgling young newspaper men and women who are bolstered in both heart and hope by the example of his career.

Ernie never was graduated by his alma mater. He quit during his senior year to go to work. Some of the oldtimers here say he left because of a broken romance with a red-haired girl. Others say, "No, it was just because he was Ernie—already restless to be on his way."

Once Pyle did leave the campus in January, 1923, he stayed away for 21 years. He loved the university, said he wanted to remember it as he had known it in his youth. He came back only once in his lifetime—to take an honorary degree in 1944. A few months later he was killed by a sniper's bullet on Ie Shima.

But today the personality of the city, brooding farmboy who became the greatest battle reporter of his generation dominates his old school.

A $500,000 journalism building has been named in his honor. A plaque commemorating his achievements has been set up by Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalistic fraternity.

In the lounge of Ernie Pyle Hall are collected a number of mementoes of the correspondent. They include the trenching tool he used to dig his own foxholes, a beat-up dress cap he wore in London, his battered portable typewriter, his medals, and one of the last columns he wrote before his death.

"The students are quite proud of the Pyle tradition," said John E. Stempel, chairman of the Journalism department, who himself was a friend and classmate of Ernie's. "They asked that the building be named after him."

"We still have the desk Ernie used when he was editor of the paper. It is being reglued right now, so it will last for another 30 or 50 years."

A memorial fund of more than $50,000 raised by newspaper admirers has provided some 60 Ernie Pyle journalism scholarships during the pastwar years. Many of them went to war veterans, and Stempel said most of the winners have gone on and done well in newspaper work.

"Ernie himself had a good academic record while he was in school," he remarked.

Standing before the glass case that holds his typewriter, the same typewriter I had so often seen Ernie beat out his copy on during the war years, I had a haunted feeling, as if the man himself were invisibly present.

Certainly if he could know what has been done here in his name, I'm sure Ernie Pyle couldn't ask for a happier memorial. He was a man of unceasing small kindnesses in his lifetime. Now a decade after his death he remains an inspiration and a concrete help to struggling youngsters learning the writing craft he himself ennobled.

Siamese Twins Are Parted; Outlook Good

CHICAGO (AP) — The head-joined Andrews Siamese twin girls were separated last night and surgeons are "guardedly optimistic" both will survive.

Mercy Hospital described the girls' conditions as "good" early today.

Never have two similarly linked Siamese twins survived separation. Dr. Harold Voris, who headed the team of 14 doctors performing the operation, said it was completed in the relatively fast time of 4½ hours. This compared to 12 hours, 40 minutes for separation of the famed Brodie twins in 1952. Rodney Brodie, now 3½, survived; Roger died 34 days after the separation.

Unlike the Brodies, the Andrews girls, Deborah Marie and Christine Mary, now nearly 7 months old, had separate sagittal sinuses, the veins which drain blood from the brain.

Dr. Voris said this fact was responsible for the operation's success.

He reported that, going into the operations, surgeons planned to complete it only if the twins retained sufficient strength.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. John W. Barrett, director of Catholic hospitals in Chicago, said the separation was "touch-and-go" at times, with the girls rallying every time their strength began to ebb.

The twins' 33-year-old mother, Mrs. Wilfred J. Andrews, a Chicago registered nurse, received news that the separation was successful with:

"It's wonderful. I can hardly wait to see them in their cribs."

The father, 38, is a meat packing company salesman.

Attorney Is Stumped During '13' Question In Gambling Hearing

DETROIT (AP) — Atty. Harry R. Bockoff was in Recorder's (criminal) Court yesterday to defend two men in a gambling case.

The men were accused of selling "lucky" numbers in a mutual racket.

Bockoff, cross-examining Police Inspector Clayton Nowlin, raised the question whether some numbers are "lucky" and others "unlucky."

"Now wouldn't you agree, inspector, that most people consider the number '13' unlucky?" Bockoff asked.

"I hardly think so," answered Nowlin. "There are 13 letters in my name, and 13 in my wife's name. I was married on the 13th of April and assigned to the 13th Precinct April 13, 1928, and . . ."

"That's enough," interrupted Bockoff.

Heartless Thieves Rob Widow, Children Of Jewelry and Cash

NEW YORK (AP) — Two robbers, disregarding the pleas of a recently widowed Brooklyn woman, last night looted her home of $1,500 in jewelry and $26 in cash.

The armed thugs pushed their way into the home of Mrs. Shirley Stark whose husband, Dr. Julius Stark, was killed April 7 in a five-car collision on New Jersey's Pulaski Skyway.

One robber stood guard over the woman's two children, Allen, 15, and Tobey, 10. The other gathered up the gems and cash.

Mrs. Stark pleaded: "I'm a widow. I've just lost my husband. Can't you leave us alone?"

She pointed to the mourning candles burning on a sideboard. The bandits ignored her plea and fled with the loot.

Loyal Dog Fights Off Aid For Sick Master

NEW YORK (AP) — Rocky the boxer is a loyal dog but overzealous. He fought off two policemen and bit one as they sought to help his master, who collapsed yesterday on a Manhattan street.

After the dog's owner, William Thomas, 43, became ill, Rocky stood over him and growled at anyone who came near. One patrolman grasped the dog's collar and was bitten on the hand and forearm.

An ASPCA agent, wearing leather gloves, got Rocky away from his master so they could take him to a hospital.

Thomas, told later what happened, said: "Good old Rocky, he meant well."

Coal Dealer Deserves Vacation He Thinks

EASTHAMPTON, Mass. (AP) — George H. Halford, 68, a coal dealer in Easthampton 43 years, put an advertisement in the local paper yesterday, saying:

He sold his business and then he left for a long vacation.

Gen. Collins Will Report On Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. J. Lawton Collins, openly concerned about the political crisis in free Viet Nam, reports his on-the-scene findings to President Eisenhower today.

Against a backdrop of sharp differences between the United States and France on further support for the government of Premier Ngo Dinh Diem, the President's special ambassador arranged to call at the White House with Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr.

Collins told newsmen on his arrival yesterday from violence-flecked Saigon that the situation "is serious." Asked if the United States will continue to support Diem, he said quickly: "Our government is behind the legal government of Viet Nam."

Diem's resignation has been demanded by a united front of three armed religious sects—the Binh Xuyen, the Cao Dai and the Hoa Hao.

French authorities also were said to be urging Diem's immediate replacement by Emperor Bao Dai and appointment of another government leader.

However, Secretary of State Dulles was authoritatively reported to have turned down this suggestion in outspoken terms in a meeting Monday with French Ambassador Maurice Couve de Murville.

Nevertheless Paris reports have persisted that a Franco-American agreement has been reached on Diem's dismissal and that a change of tone could be expected from Washington after Collins reported to the President.

These reports angered American officials who could perceive no shift in the American position of backing Diem's government to the hilt. "It appears to be a question of what foreign office do you believe," said one official.

Professor Says Level Of Students, Faculty Now Is Much Lower

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP) — Ernest Van Den Haag, professor of philosophy at New York University, says "the dispensing of knowledge becomes entirely wrong when we address ourselves to the great masses whose intellect is low."

He said last night that educating the large masses "destroys reverence" because "there is conflict between knowledge and the myth upon which society rests."

He said also that the rise in the number of college students since the war is creating "a decline in the quality of both the students and the faculty."

Prof. Van Den Haag spoke at the fourth annual Vermont conference at the University of Vermont.

Boys Forgiven After Taking Plane Joyride Over Mojave Desert

PACOMA, Calif. (AP) — Two 15-year-old boys who "borrowed" a plane last Tuesday without the owner's permission and took a two-day jaunt over the Mojave desert, won't be prosecuted.

The plane was found yesterday on a highway between Darwin and Keeler, in Inyo County, after the boys landed it there and set out to find help to tie it down against high winds.

The boys flew the plane to Trona Tuesday and refueled. Wednesday they landed at Lone Pine, and were en route to Ely, Nev., and were lost. Despite warnings they took off in rough weather and were forced down.

The plane's owner has forgiven everything.

Sperry Seeks Picketing End At Its Plant

NEW YORK (AP) — The Sperry Gyroscope Co. today seeks a court-enforced end to mass picketing and violence at its struck plant at Lake Success on Long Island. Meanwhile, its electronics production is halted.

Two successive days of battling between CIO pickets and non-strikers left one man dead of a heart attack, and several injured. A State Supreme Court hearing was scheduled here today on a company petition for an injunction against the mass picketing.

Yesterday's renewed violence outside the mile-long Sperry plant led the company to abandon all efforts to keep operating. Non-striking employees were directed to stay home until further notice.

The effect was to idle all of Sperry's 16,000 employees, including the 9,000 members of the CIO International Union of Electrical Workers who struck at midnight Monday in a wage dispute.

Besides the big plant at Lake Success, Sperry production plants at Mineola and Lake Ronkonkoma, both on Long Island, also were closed. There had been minor disturbances at these plants.

Small bands of supervisory personnel kept vigil inside the plants to see that vital manufacturing processes and equipment did not deteriorate.

It was the first crippling strike in Sperry's 45-year history as a chief supplier of electronics equipment to the nation's armed forces.

Rain on Both Coasts But Fair Elsewhere; Temperature Seasonal

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
There was rain in Atlantic and Pacific coastal areas today but generally fair weather prevailed in most other sections of the country.

The rain belt in the East extended from eastern sections of the Carolinas northeastward along the Atlantic coastal areas into southern New England. Falls in most places was light.

The wet weather continued over most of the Pacific coastal states during the night.

Temperatures generally were seasonal or above with mild weather continuing in the Southeast and Westward into the Southern Plains. Readings in the 50s extended as far north as the southern Great Lakes region to the South Dakota border. The 30s were reported in the Upper Mississippi Valley and parts of the Dakotas. Readings in the 40s prevailed West of the continental divide and were in the 60s in the Far Southwest.

Boy Almost Drowned In Try to Save Dog

LOWELL, Mass. (AP) — Paul Kiah, 14, tried to save his pet dog from the swollen Merrimack River yesterday, and might have drowned if it weren't for three policemen.

The boy boarded a raft when he saw the dog being carried down stream. Passersby saw the danger into which the boy was floating and called policemen.

Capt. Francis M. O'Loughlin shouted to the boy to grab the branch of a tree overhanging the river. As the boy did so, he fell into the swirling water.

O'Loughlin waded shoulder deep and snatched the boy. The other two officers helped them ashore. The dog apparently drowned.

Court Denies Board Right to Halt Work Of Convicted Doctor

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — The Maryland Court of Appeals has refused to even consider the attempt of the state Board of Medical Examiners to revoke the license of a physician convicted of income tax evasion.

The court ruled yesterday there was no appeal from the circuit court decision that income tax evasion does not justify revocation of a medical license.

The board had lifted the license of Dr. Napoleon B. Stewart, a member of the Maryland House of Delegates from 1942 to 1950. The Prince Georges County physician was convicted of evading more than $15,000 in income taxes for 1944 through 1946.

Judge Charles C. Marbury refused to allow the revocation after Dr. Stewart appealed.

Elementary School Blaze Set Purposely; Polio Vaccine Safe

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The $125,000 fire which virtually destroyed the old William B. Travis Elementary School here yesterday "definitely was set on purpose," Fire Marshall W. G. Burns said.

Fire Chief C. N. Penn earlier said that bricks and burning street flares apparently were thrown through windows of the school to set the blaze. It threatened a large residential area for a time.

"We have every confidence of breaking the case," Burns said last night. Salk polio vaccine, due for Travis students yesterday, was not harmed by the flames. It was stored in a basement refrigerator.

Keep The Airport Spark Alive

A spark of enthusiasm for Sedalia's Memorial Municipal Airport east of town has flared into renewed animation following a meeting of the airport board of commissioners to organize and discuss plans to rectify the landing field deficiencies.

Future development of the airport will be coordinated with Chamber of Commerce activities and city plans for development, the board members have stated.

A major objective will be to make improvements to conform to the Civil Aeronautics Authority minimum requirements for the purpose of eventually providing facilities to attract scheduled feeder air lines to a community that long ago should have had this type of service comparable to that provided by other communities the size and importance of Sedalia.

Public encouragement should be given the airport commissioners who have declared their initial intention to contact the CAA airport engineers in Kansas City and ask for recommendations and specifications to bring Sedalia's airport up to standard. Another healthy indication of the board's determination is immediate attention to provide a secondary north-south turf runway to accommodate activities of the Sedalia Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol and transient fliers.

One of the board's problems will be to delve into and determine what financial requirements will be necessary and how to obtain funds to implement the improvements. There is likelihood further federal funds may become available.

Sedalia needs to get on the commercial airline maps, at the very least in the feeder-line category, and the sooner the better. When this is accomplished it will be symbolic of vigor for progress that is becoming a Sedalia axiom.

Renewed interest in the airport project should not be permitted to smoulder.

A Unique Plan For Senior Class Gifts

A unique plan has been suggested to the June graduating classes in 25,000 high schools throughout the country that they give their traditional class gift this year as a contribution to the American Korean Foundation to help restore educational facilities in war-battered Korea. The funds would be used to repair school buildings, equip laboratories and libraries and to help pay for teacher training. This foundation located at 345 East 46th Street in New York works on a person-to-person basis in its Korean rehabilitation program.

The senior class that is making a substantial gift to improve a need in its own school would not be encouraged to give that up, but if it is a painting or a statue which could be given another year, the money would go much further for actual school necessities in Korea and would help to restore many of the school facilities destroyed by the war.

Such gifts are worth considering, but not at the cost of something equally necessary in the schools at home. It might be possible for some senior classes to give both.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round--

Eds Scan Truman Criticism, Ike Censorship

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Harry Truman's crackdown on the press for not publishing all the facts on the Eisenhower Administration, coupled with the severe news censorship by certain parts of the Eisenhower Administration, present vitally important problems for the American Society of Newspaper Editors meeting here this week.

Many editors, among them Russell Wiggins of the Washington Post and V. M. Newton, Jr., of the Tampa Tribune, have been waging a vigorous campaign, not only to print the truth but also to break the tightening wall of censorship. They realize, as most people don't, that about 70 per cent of the taxpayers' money is spent by the Defense Department, where censorship is tightest.

Furthermore, the greatest proportion of contracts awarded by the Defense Department to any company goes to the giant firm which Secretary of Defense Wilson once headed, General Motors. Hitherto, the Defense Department has regularly published the list of the 100 largest companies getting contracts and the proportion of business they get. Wilson has published only one such list since he assumed office, and that under pressure.

Hitherto, it's been a Defense Department rule that matters pertaining to dollars, to the expenditure of money, should be a matter of public record, that the public was entitled to know how its money was being spent.

That, today, is changed. Today, it is not possible for newsmen to ascertain whether semi-outmoded tanks are still being produced, only to sit and rust; why the Navy is building a multi-million-dollar Spanish base near Gibraltar when the Air Force has exactly the same type of base just across the Straits of Gibraltar which both could use; whether Secretary Wilson is right about cutting down on small defense contracts and pooling them with big companies — including his own; the number of times he uses government planes to go deer hunting; plus a myriad other questions which in no way involve national safety but do involve efficiency, politics and the right of a self-governed people to know how their money is spent.

Easy Cal Coolidge

There are other things the editors may want to examine this week. There've been, for instance, a lot of changes in press-conference techniques. They have come a long, long way from the easy-going smugness of Calvin Coolidge when a mere handful of newsmen gathered around Cal's desk twice a week to hear him ramble on about fishing or the stock market or the hive of bees he'd found in a tree on the White House lawn.

Questions were asked only in writing then, and if the President didn't choose to answer, no one could cross-examine him. The public didn't know there were press conferences then, weren't supposed to know that the President expressed his views. His views were published as coming from a "White House spokesman," and newsmen carefully respected this anonymity.

Today, how different! Today, the press gets more chance to ask questions, also more glamor. Today a White House conference is more like a Hollywood stage, and some reporters seem more interested in asking questions that will listen well on television than produce news. They know this is the best way to get their names and faces shown back home.

But their fate as glamor-pusses depends on a tough young man named James Hagerty. If Press Secretary Hagerty doesn't like the question, if it's too searching, too embarrassing, then censor Hagerty cuts it out of the TV record and it isn't seen all over the nation. It's a technique that can discourage searching questions.

Appeal to Publishers

The White House has also developed another technique for discouraging newsmen who pry into disagreeable subjects. It's similar to the technique used by Herbert Hoover when he didn't like critical newsmen — namely, economic pressure.

When Robert S. Allen co-authored the book, Washington Merry-Go-Round, which dug beneath the surface of ordinary reporting, Hoover complained to the Christian Science Monitor and Allen was fired. Again when Frank Simonds and Paul Scott Mowrer wrote critical dispatches regarding Hoover's foreign policy, he invited the late Col. Frank Knox of the Chicago Daily News, who employed Mowrer, and John C. Martin of the Philadelphia Public Ledger, who syndicated Simonds, to lunch, and complained that they were hurting international relations.

The publishers stood their ground.

Somewhat similar tactics are being practiced today. Milton Friedman of the Jewish Telegraph Agency was called in by Max Rabb, White House assistant, and told that his news stories reporting on Eisenhower policy toward the Arabs were causing trouble. He also didn't like some of Friedman's questions at press conferences regarding the breakdown of the immigration bill — the same breakdown recently highlighted by Ed Corsi.

Rabb promised that if Friedman would play ball with the administration, he, Friedman, would be given inside news.

Friedman refused. He said he had been reporting what he believed to be the truth and he would continue to do so.

Significantly, Friedman's boss in New York next got a call. It came from Bernard Katzen, head of the Jewish division of the Republican National Committee, who protested that Friedman was asking embarrassing questions of President Eisenhower.

The Jewish Telegraph Agency did not, however, discipline Friedman. It issued a statement, published in Editor and Publisher, that this was a new approach in trying to influence the press and that they would continue to publish the news as they saw it. They increased Friedman's salary.

Max Rabb also tried to pressure this column when the writer sent a reporter to Boston to check on the manner in which Rabb had tried to get a pardon for his convicted law associate. Learning of the reporter's trip, Rabb made direct threats that he would have the reporter investigated. The reporter, incidentally, had nothing to worry about as far as an investigation was concerned.

NOTE — Another column regarding new government techniques with the press will follow shortly.

Speak For Themselves

We wish that our politicians would take a rest from speaking in the name of the "American people," and just speak for themselves for a while.

Scan the Congressional Record any day and you will find it replete with utterances which begin: "The American people simply will not stand for—"

Or: "Senator Blomhard owes the American people an apology for his shabby treatment of this issue—"

Or: "If the distinguished gentleman imagines he can fool the American people with this talk, well—"

Let's face it. Most of the fellows who talk this way are just offering their own well-cooked opinions. They're not fooling the American people. Gosh, there WE go!

New Insurance Policies Pull Rug from Under Federal Plan

By JOSEPH A. DEAR

Democrat-Capital
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — At least two large insurance companies are now offering "deductible" medical and hospital plans.

The plan subscriber pays all medical bills under a stipulated minimum—say $300—and the insurance company pays the rest. (Under one plan, the insurance company pays three quarters of anything over the minimum.)

Subscribers to such plans purchase protection against crippling medical bills. A serious ailment could cost thousands. But subscribers would only pay out the $300 minimum. It's the same principle on which deductible auto insurance is based.

The reappearance of this type of plan will deprive the backers of compulsory national health insurance of a good talking point. One of the most effective arguments for national health insurance was that adequate protection at a reasonable price could not be bought from any insurance company.

Most hospitalization and medical plans had a ceiling—not a minimum. Their subscribers got assistance up to $300, say, and nothing after that.

But people need insurance for the cost they cannot afford to meet. In a pinch most people could probably get together $300. Not so many can raise $10,000. And yet one serious ailment could produce bills of that magnitude. Until recently, insurance to protect against medical disaster was unavailable.

Incidentally, deductible insurance plans were commonplace before the 1929 crash, and apparently cost the issuing companies plenty. Many policies guaranteed not only medical protection, but income protection as well. The crash left many policy holders sick and broke. The plans don't guarantee income.

The following is for those who tire of political news and politicians.

It concerns a North Dakota farmer through whose town the gubernatorial candidates passed. The Democrat spoke in the morning, the Republican in the afternoon.

That evening a friend asked the farmer's opinion of the candidates. "Well," he said, "it's a lucky thing we can only elect one of them."

And speaking of politicians, Harry Truman was back here. For the Jefferson-Jackson $100 a plate dinner.

Mr. Truman never had much use for the press. But when in the White House he used to aim his barbs at publishers. This time his broadside included reporters, too. Implied that they were actively engaged in a conspiracy to protect the Eisenhower Administration from unfavorable publicity.

From this corner, it would seem that Congressional Democrats were the logical targets for Mr. Truman's criticism. The press hasn't done so badly on some fronts.

Consider the Formosa issue, and the related problem of the offshore islands. The Democrats permitted the Formosa resolution to slide through with almost no debate.

A few Senators, notably Wayne Morse (D-Ore), discussed the implications. And the press carried the story. The Democratic National Committee prepared a memorandum discussing the implications. The memorandum was ignored by Congressional Democrats, but was reported by newsmen.

If the Administration's loyalty-security program is better now than it was, the press deserves more credit than the Democratic majority on Capitol Hill. In spite of advance hoopla, the Democrats have not yet undertaken a thorough going investigation of the security program.

Most Nosebleeds Can Be And Are Rapidly Checked

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.

"When I was a young girl I had nosebleeds quite often but finally outgrew it. Later I have been having them again on the right side of my nose about a week apart. I wonder if high blood pressure could cause this condition?" So writes Mrs. J.

It is hard to say what caused Mrs. J.'s nosebleeds when she was a girl but they may have been related to the action of her hormones at that time. At least there have been some reports to indicate that the changes in the hormones occurring during adolescence may be sometimes responsible.

The cause of her nosebleeds now is, of course, a matter of speculation without further information. High blood pressure is one possible cause but there are others. If she is having them as often as a week apart she might quite possibly develop an anemia and certainly the cause could be further investigated.

There is a family form of nosebleed which is sometimes found in several generations. This condition is caused by enlarged blood vessels in the nose which may rupture and result in nosebleeds at all too frequent intervals.

Nosebleeds may be associated with several blood diseases. When the blood does not clot properly, bleeding is particularly likely to show up in various openings of the body, including the nose. In fact, nosebleed may be the first sign of some "bleeding" disease.

Some people get a nosebleed merely by going to high altitudes; in others violent exertions will bring on bleeding; acute infections are frequently at fault, and there are other less common causes such as tuberculous ulcers in the nose itself, and chemical poisoning.

High blood pressure may be associated with extensive nose bleeding. In such patients bleeding may last a long time and be extremely difficult to stop. It is a question in such cases, however, as to whether the nosebleed is not nature's way of relieving some of

DEATH OF A LEGEND

By WILL HENRY

Copyright 1954 by Will Henry. Used by arrangement with Doubleday, Inc. Published by MCA Service.

THE STORY: Thirteen horsemen headed by Jesse James, have ridden into Liberty, Mo., toward the Clay County Savings & Loan Association. Their arrival was observed by 19-year-old George (Jolly) Wymore, a student of Jefferson Junior College.

THREE of the horsemen detached themselves from the gesturing, quick-talking group. They rode only a short way, then separated and took up independent stations several hundred feet from the bank. The remaining 10 rode directly to the bank. Before the doors, they split up. Three rode away along the street to the north, three along the street to the west. Neither of these groups took up a station, but continued forth along the storefronts facing the square, clearly on the quiver for the first move of interference from patron or proprietor of the opening business establishments.

The original three horsemen now dismounted, threw their reins over the bank's hitching rail, moved toward the waiting doors. There, the third man stopped, posting himself in a lookout position commanding approach to the bank entrance from either direction. The other two, one of them the big man who had spoken so pleasantly to George, hurried into the building.

Inside, the two strangers paused, returning the questioning looks of Mr. Greenup Bird and his worthy scion.

Mr. Greenup Bird later remembered that the pair's official greeter was a fine-looking, six-foot man of scholarly address. "Are you open for business, good sirs?"

"Why yes," stammered the elder Bird. "Yes, of course. Name your pleasure, gentlemen."

The senior cashier was understandably new to the type of business he was inviting. He grew old to it rapidly.

Jesse moved across the floor to the cashier's counter. Where the big pistol came from, Mr. Greenup Bird never could remember. He remembered distinctly, however, that it wound up probing the region of his right temple.

"All right," said Jesse unheatedly. "Open the vault, and don't drag your feet about it or I'll blow your head off."

Cashier Bird was an astute banker, had a quick head for clear figures. He opened the vault.

Meanwhile, Cole had implanted his gun in the younger Bird's shrinking belly, and now backed him toward the vault, following his father and Jesse. Inside the vault, the shelves were admirably cleaned. Both captive Birds watched helplessly as the smaller man swept bonds, greenbacks and minted coins alike into the capacious maw of the Missouri wheatsack which the bigger outlaw had produced from beneath his long coat.

With the sack full, the two bandits stopped outside the vault. The larger doffed his hat to the elder Bird, who had followed them out of the vault.

"A pleasant good morning, sir. Thank you for your courtesy."

WITH that, he and the bulging wheatsack were on their way to the door. But his smaller companion, pausing, eyed the indignant cashier narrowly. In his subsequent deposition, Bird avowed that the following instruction came with a crooked grin and a notably nervous eyeblink.

"All birds should be caged," philosophized the small gunman. "Get back inside the vault, Mr. Bird, and step to it!"

Mr. Bird stepped to it. Joining his son in the vault, he heard the slam of its door, saw the accompanying departure of the slender bandit from behind its heavy grillwork.

The spring lock on the vault door had failed to catch in the hurried slamming.

Cole was still tying the wheatsack to his saddlehorn, and Frank was still waiting for Jesse outside the bank entrance, when Mr. Greenup Bird's outraged cries for aid and succor began.

Cole had the sack adjusted to his unhurried liking. By the same time Frank and Jesse had found stirrup and were mounted. Also by the same time, the atmosphere on the northwest corner of Liberty's square was beginning to whistle a bit.

Several quick-thinking individuals among the astonished citizenry had found firearms.

BUT Jesse had not failed to apply his usual care in such professional matters. His men were well drilled in the parts each had been assigned in the master plan.

The three outlying pickets took off in as many directions, yelling and firing their revolvers to draw attention off the main pack. The two groups of patrolling guerrillas raced their horses back and forth along the storefronts, pouring a hail of high-aimed lead into them which had Liberty's shopkeepers sweeping up glass for a week. Under the crash and confusion of this galloping destruction, Jesse, Frank and Cole headed their mounts around the square in the identical direction whence they had come not five minutes before.

George Wymore, sole first-hand eyewitness to the original approach of the three outlaw leaders, was still standing on his cross-street corner. As the trio of fleeing bandits thundered back toward him, he lost sudden interest in the whole proceedings.

Turning, he began to run. One of the three horsemen shot him twice through the back as he ran. He fell immediately, rolled over, came halfway to his knees, still clutching the leather-thonged pack of his schoolbooks. The second wave of guerrilla horsemen, running up on iron-shod heels of the first, finished the job.

The World Today--

The Guessing Game Goes On

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The American people and the Red Chinese have one thing in common: Both are left guessing whether the Eisenhower administration intends to defend the Matsu and Quemoy Islands, close to the Red China coast.

The administration itself is guessing, so far as is publicly known. All it has said is vague. Meanwhile, the American public gets repeated jolts from developing events, as if bumping into a short-circuit.

There have been several jolts in recent weeks. They were startling when they happened. The net effect was confusion.

Chiang Kai-shek, the American ally, claims Matsu and Quemoy and has troops on them. His main forces are on Formosa. The United States, by treaty with Chiang, is pledged to defend Formosa but not Matsu and Quemoy.

In a special message to Congress Jan. 24 President Eisenhower asked Congress for specific authority to defend Formosa and closely related localities. Those localities could mean Matsu and Quemoy. But Eisenhower didn't say so.

He said such authority from Congress—which Congress gave him quickly—would reduce the possibility that the Red Chinese might misjudge the U.S. "purpose" and "precipitate a major crisis."

What he intended to do about Quemoy and Matsu, being vague in the message, could only leave the Chinese guessing. The President still hasn't said anything definite about the islands.

If all that the administration has said about them could be boiled down it would be this: The President will decide on fighting for Quemoy and Matsu if the Reds attack them and he thinks then Formosa is endangered.

A few weeks ago Adm. Robert B. Carney was quoted by some newsmen, after an off-the-record dinner with him, as expecting an attack on Quemoy and Matsu by April 15. A short time later the President said he had no such information.

To add to the confusion, Carney said he hadn't been quoted correctly. And newsmen who had been at the dinner didn't agree on just what he said.

Last Sunday, after a visit with

Eisenhower, Secretary of State Dulles told newsmen that "only during the last few days" this government had learned of an "intense" Chinese airpower buildup opposite Formosa.

On Wednesday the Defense Department announced, "in view of the tense situation" in the Formosa area, Adm. Arthur W. Radford and Walter S. Robertson, assistant secretary of state, would fly to Formosa. They left within two hours.

At almost the same time Dulles told newsmen "no crisis is involved" and that the two men were going to Formosa for the "normal maintenance of contact in a situation that is admittedly serious."

Yesterday Sen. George (D-Ga.) chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, the one man outside the administration most likely to know the purpose of the Radford-Robertson trip, said he thought the men were going to Formosa to get a first-hand view of the situation.

The President, if he has made up his mind about Matsu and Quemoy, may be keeping it quiet so he can negotiate with the Red Chinese for the islands in return for a cease-fire in the Formosa area. But it's not certain he's made up his mind.

Blaming Parents Silly Psychiatrist Claims

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Dr. Manuel M. Escudero says that blaming mom and dad for all juvenile delinquency is fantastic.

"It used to be said that some children are just born bad," he told a reporter. "Then we went to the other extreme and decided that environment was everything. Now too much reproach has been unfairly poured onto mothers and fathers."

Escudero added the trend has gone so far as to "become silly." He is a child psychiatrist at the Menninger Foundation in Topeka, Kan.

Dr. W. T. Walsh, newly appointed city physician, was to take up his position May 1. There were ten patients in the general hospital, seven of them being charity patients.

Says Poorer World Areas Need A-Power

LOS ANGELES (AP)—John Jay Hopkins, president of the company that made the world's first atomic powered submarine, has urged that the United States make atomic industrial power available first to underdeveloped areas of the world.

Hopkins, president of General Dynamics Corp. of New York, told a founders' day gathering at Occidental College yesterday that oil, coal and hydroelectric power are still cheaper in this country than atomic power.

But, he said, costs for conventional power run much higher in many parts of the world than they do in the United States. Hopkins, whose company built the atomic-powered USS Nautilus, added:

"I think now that those who have studied this evolving atomic situation are pretty well agreed that the time has come when it is practical for private enterprise to develop atomic power for peaceful purposes. The present question is, what is the best way to get started?"

"It seems to me that the answer to that question lies in what I call the 'paradox of world markets.' By this I mean that the quickest way to make atomic power generally available in our own country, in my opinion, is to make it available first abroad, and particularly in the so-called 'underdeveloped areas.'"

"Though atomic power in the United States," said Hopkins, "is not yet competitive price-wise with mineral fuels or water power, it is definitely competitive in many other countries."

"Industrialization by atom will sharply raise the income of these countries, and will make them major markets for American crops and goods through mutually beneficial trade," he said.

"The experience gained by installing atomic reactors abroad, with the cost reductions and technological improvements that are bound to result, will speed the day when it is feasible to make general use of atomic power here at home."

He said that he considered the atomic submarine built by General Dynamics to be on the "bright side" of the atomic situation. The Nautilus is far more than a weapon, he said.

"If the Nautilus were to tie up tomorrow at the dock at Groton, Conn., and connect her atomic engines to that city's power system, she could keep its lights burning and its electric engines running possibly for weeks on end—without refueling."

France Decides To Give Papers On German Issue

PARIS (AP)—Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay announced today that France will deposit its ratification of the Paris agreements on West German rearmament on May 5 in Bonn, Brussels and Washington.

Depositing of the ratification instruments by all the signatory powers will put the treaties into effect. Britain is expected to take this step at the same time France does, although a British Foreign Office spokesman said yesterday his government had not yet fixed a date.

West Germany and the United States both deposited their instruments yesterday. The United States is a party to all the accords except the treaty creating a seven-nation West European Union and a French-German agreement on the Saar.

A West German spokesman in Bonn said today his government expects to receive sovereignty in 14 days.

Officials of the North Atlantic alliance expect that all the 15 signers of the NATO treaty will have deposited their ratifications in Washington in time for West Germany to be received into the alliance at a NATO Council meeting in Paris May 9.

Two More Sentenced As Labor Racketeers

ST. LOUIS (AP)—U. S. District Judge Roy W. Harper has assessed 10-year prison sentences on Peter B. Higgins Sr. and Henry Schmidt for labor racketeering.

A heart attack suffered by Higgins after his conviction had delayed sentencing and Judge Harper said yesterday Higgins should go to the U. S. medical center at Springfield, Mo., for a physical examination.

Both men will remain free under $25,000 bonds until Monday.

The former AFL Teamsters Union business agents were convicted March 18 of extorting $1,800 from two pipeline contractors in 1951-52 on promises they would guarantee labor peace on the projects.

The population of France has grown from slightly more than 27 million in 1801 to 43 million today.

Gun Spree Kills Woman, Injures Two

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A 29-year-old Negro told officials he wounded three women in an early morning shooting spree yesterday — two of them because they rebuffed his advances.

One of the women died of her wounds.

Guy Nolan, a machinist named in a warrant charging murder and assault with intent to kill, told Eugene Freeman, assistant circuit attorney, that a traffic dispute caused him "to just blow my top."

Dead is Mrs. June Alma Lytz, 51, operator of a bath and massage parlor. The injured women are Miss Helen Forrester, 34, and Mrs. Luvida Hodge, 22, a Negro.

Freeman said Nolan gave the following version in a signed statement:

A traffic light changed to green but Mrs. Lytz, walking her dog shortly after midnight, continued to walk slowly in front of Nolan's car. He honked. When she reached the curb, she turned and "called me names."

A policeman found her body, partially concealed by a hedge, after he noticed her pet dog which was guarding the body.

A short time later Nolan approached Miss Forrester and called "hey, baby," but she rebuffed him, his statement continued. He "just got sore" and fired at her, striking her in the thigh.

He next fired at, but missed, a Negro cab driver who honked at him. Mrs. Hodge was the final victim after she refused his demand that she get in his car.

Nolan, married and the father of a small child, was arrested at work about 12 hours after the shootings. Police traced him through a license number.

Safe Job

CHICAGO (AP)—William Herzog was in a back office of his interior decorating establishment. When none of his eight employees responded to his telephone call, he stormed into the front office to see why. He heard a rapping on the office vault door. He opened it and out strode eight employees, plus a customer.

They said two gunmen held them up, took $170 cash, herded them into the safe and slammed the door.

Cabinet Aide, Corsi Friend, Declines Move

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House said today Maxwell Rabb, secretary to the Cabinet, has declined an invitation to testify at Senate hearings on the case of Edward Corsi.

Chairman Langer (R-ND) of a Senate Judiciary subcommittee had sought testimony from Rabb as to his part in bringing Corsi, a prominent New York Republican, into the State Department.

Dismissed on Easter Sunday, Corsi has charged his ouster was engineered by a group which he said is "sabotaging" the administration's refugee relief program. Langer's subcommittee is looking into the charges.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said Langer invited Rabb to testify several days ago.

"The White House," Hagerty told reporters, "believes that confidential assistants to the President should not testify in regard to confidential matters in the White House offices or between the departments in the executive branch of the government."

He added that Langer was notified of this decision last night by Jack Martin, administrative assistant to the President.

Rabb is an associate counsel to Eisenhower in addition to being Cabinet secretary. Martin is one of the congressional liaison aides, decline the invitation for Rabb's.

Asked whether the decision to appearance before the Langer group was on presidential orders, Hagerty replied it was a White House decision, conforming to an executive order already on the books.

Delinquent Tax Payments Rolling In to Collector

Delinquent personal taxes in the amount of $922 have been collected by City Collector Paul Alpert in the past week. The influx of back payments is the result of a report issued by Alpert a week ago Friday, listing two hundred Sedalians that have been carried on the city books as delinquents for over two years.

The collection this past week is approximately one-fifth of a total delinquent tax bill of $5,200 from the Alpert report.

Personal taxes fall due in November of each year and a penalty of one per cent per month is added to the individual bill until a maximum of ten per cent per year penalty is reached. Many of the delinquents owe the city up to $200 in back taxes and penalties.

City ordinances direct the City Collector to sell no city vehicle license until personal and merchant taxes have been paid. Recent police action in rounding up vehicle owners who do not have current city license is largely responsible for delinquent tax payments at this time.

Town Uses Legacy

PERRYOPOLIS, Pa. (AP)—This small southwestern Pennsylvania community is going to have a modern sewage system, thanks to a woman who left about $1,500,000 to her home town. Mrs. Mary Fuller Frazier of Philadelphia, who died several years ago, stipulated the money be used for civic improvements.

The first improvement made when the money finally became available more than a year ago was 113 new street lights.

The trustees of the estate now have given their okay to the sewage system to cost $325,000.

St. Louisan, K.C. Jurist To High Court

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Clem F. Stockman of St. Louis and Henry I. Eager of Kansas City are the new judges of Missouri's Supreme Court.

Gov. Phil M. Donnelly appointed them yesterday under the non-partisan court plan to fill vacancies. Stockman succeeds the late Judge Ernest M. Tipton and Eager succeeds Judge George Robb Ellison, who retired April 1.

Both are Democrats and take the places of Democrats. Donnelly's last appointee to the court, Judge Henry J. Westhues, was a Republican.

In selecting the new judges, the governor passed over two Supreme Court commissioners, Cullen Coil and Paul W. Barrett. Also on the panels submitted to him April 4 were Judge Lyon Anderson of the St. Louis Court of Appeals and Forrest M. Hemker of Webster Groves, former Bar Association president.

Both the new judges are graduates of the University of Michigan law school.

Stockman, 56, was a delegate to the 1943-44 constitutional convention and in 1949-50 helped draft a new St. Louis charter later defeated by the voters. He has been on the St. Louis Board of Education, the Traffic Appeals Board, Citizens' Finance Committee and a bond issue screening committee.

Eager, 59, formerly served on the State Board of Law Examiners and is a member of the Bar Association's board of governors. He is a World War I veteran and his wife is on the Kansas City Board of Education.

Policies of the former organization will be maintained as pertaining to Main Street business at the present time.

The association, sponsors of civic improvement for Main Street and business in general, discussed matters as the projected changes in traffic and parking and how this is affecting Main Street. A program was inaugurated for the purpose of further stimulating business.

The group will meet again the fourth Tuesday of each month with dinner programs.

Avery Faces His New Foe At Meeting

CHICAGO (AP)—Sewell L. Avery, who never has backed away from anything—including the U. S. Army—faces up to a new foe, Louis E. Wolfson, today.

The annual meeting of Montgomery Ward & Co. stockholders gave Avery and Wolfson an opportunity to confront each other in person for the first time.

Avery, 81, gray, erect and a rugged individual, is chairman of the company. Wolfson, 43, tall, dark and handsome, is trying to take control of the firm—the oldest and second largest mail order house in the country.

The battle arena for these men with the multimillion dollar muscles was the Medina Temple on Chicago's near North Side. There was room for 6,200 in the theater-style auditorium and basement. It could prove to be the largest gathering of its kind in American corporate history.

Avery, as chairman, enjoyed the prerogative of presiding on the stage. Wolfson and his associates were assigned to spectator seats on the right side of the main floor near the stage.

The main event was the vote by stockholders. At stake were all nine positions on the Ward board of directors. Each side offered a full slate of nine candidates—one headed by Avery and the other by Wolfson.

The side which wins a majority—five or more—of the director posts will control the 721 million dollar company.

Wolfson, Florida and New York financier, has been campaigning to take command of Ward's for eight months.

He contended that Avery has been dragging his feet during a high-speed economic cycle. Wolfson stated that he aims to expand the company and increase sales and profits.

Avery has declared that the company is in excellent shape. He asserted that Wolfson is attracted by Ward's liquid assets—327 million dollars in cash and government bonds.

Avery, a successful business executive for more than a half century, has been the boss of Montgomery Ward & Co. almost 24 years.

Hal Boyle's Column—

Civil War Rages Among Dog Lovers Over Poodle Haircuts

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH (For HAL BOYLE)

LANGENTHAL, Switzerland (AP)—Does your poodle wear a classical or a modern haircut?

If you spurn tradition and shave off all his hair except for "cuffs" on his legs, a tuft on his tail and a "corset" round the middle, then both you and your dog are suspect in the eyes of Fritz Ruef, recently elected president of the International Cynological Federation.

Cyno comes from the Greek for dog, and Mr. Ruef probably knows more about the etiquette and society gossip of the dog world than anyone else alive.

Differences over such important matters as a poodle's haircut have led to a great schism among the world's dog lovers, and Ruef is the undisputed leader of the traditionalists.

There can be no argument about a poodle's hair, according to Ruef. "To be a poodle," he says, "a poodle must have lots of hair in front and a crew cut behind. This standard was fixed long ago by the Paris Poodle Club and accepted as binding by all self-respecting owners. It is obvious that a poodle owner who insists on dressing up his dog like a clown cannot claim equal rights in an association such as ours."

One of the main causes of the schism among the world's dog lovers was a dispute over the social register of boxers—the four-legged variety. Traditionally, a boxer's litter is limited to four puppies, and any puppies born after the fourth are destroyed to preserve the quality of the breed.

Unfortunately, Ruef said, base profit motives led to a refusal by certain "fraudulent elements" to kill off the excess puppies. "They even wanted us to enroll this illegal offspring in our official register," Mr. Ruef exclaimed with indignation. "When we naturally refused, all those who were violating the rules became dissatisfied, and that is how the trouble started."

For a time, the split remained limited to Switzerland, but the rebels soon organized themselves in other countries and Mr. Ruef's International Cynological Federation is now at war with the rebel International Cynological Union in most countries of the eastern hemisphere. Only the United States, Russia and some relatively dogless countries are not yet involved, Ruef said.

Recognized "federation" dogs—says Ruef—are a distinct social cut above the upstart "union" dogs—not to mention the untouchable class of dogs who don't belong to any organization. "Federation" dogs are rigorously forbidden to have any social contacts with "union" or unorganized dogs. Miss.

alliances do occur. Mr. Ruef admitted, but the offspring doesn't have a dog's chance of inclusion in any social register recognized by the federation.

In Switzerland alone, the dogs' social register, Hundstammbuch, lists more than 53,000 blue-blooded dogs born since 1900. The annual supplements to the register are handsomely printed by the printing works Ruef runs in Langenthal.

The federation is recognized as the ruling body of the dog world by dog lovers' associations in nearly every non-Communist country of the eastern hemisphere. American dogs have a separate organization.

Asked whether this meant that American or Russian dogs are not allowed to associate with European dogs, Mr. Ruef said: "Such unions are very uncommon. I cannot remember that such a case was ever inscribed on our register, but, of course, there may have been liaisons of which we were not informed."

Mr. Ruef, a round, balding little man of 68, is proud of his position as the world's No. 1 dog lover.

But his career contains a hidden tragedy. He does not have a single dog of his own.

"As a young man, I bred Irish terriers and dachshunds," he said. "But now I have to devote every spare minute to my organizational work, and have no time left for dogs of my own."

Dodgers Take 10th Straight, No Excitement

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press
Walter Alton, the quiet man, watched passively as his Brooklyn Dodgers set a modern major league record by winning their 10th straight since the start of the season. Then he strolled back to the clubhouse, where he fouled off two questions and smirked a third.

The first was a knuckler, hard to handle. "How long can you keep going?"
Alton puffed his cigarette. "That's anybody's guess."
The second was a curve that hung up high. "Is it the spirit? Is it better than last year?"
Alton unbuttoned his uniform shirt. "The spirit's always good when a team is winning."

The third was a fat one. "What's kept you winning?"
Alton loosened his trousers. "A combination. Hitting. Pitching. Fielding."

For a guy on the spot after the Brooks lost in '54, Alton wasn't much like a manager whose club had just won 10. He was more like Eddie Stanky after losing four.

The matter of factness was evident among all the Dodgers. "I was on a club (Chicago Cubs) that won 21 straight once," said Coach Billy Herman. "We ain't even half way there yet."

"Hell," said Duke Snider. "We still got 144 to play."
That's the way it was yesterday after the Brooklyn had become the first team since 1900 to win its first 10 games. To do it, they put the slug on Rob Roberts' unbeaten record, pasting the best right-hander in baseball and the Philadelphia Phils 14-4.

It was the only National League game played. New York at Pittsburgh was rained out. In the American, Washington knocked off first place Boston 1-0. Chicago whipped Detroit 9-1 and New York plastered Baltimore 14-2.

Roberts never had a chance against the Brooks, who now are after the all-time record of 12 straight opening victories by the 1884 Giants.

The Giants are next in Ebbets Field. Six and a half games back in sixth place, they're throwing Jim Hearn—not Sal Maglie—at the Dodgers and Johnny Podres tonight.

In the game at Washington, Bob Porterfield hooked up in a pitching duel with Tom Brewer and finally won it in the ninth as Pete Runnels singled home the lone run. Boston got just one runner as far as third against Porterfield, who gave three hits, walked three and fanned seven in winning his second decision. Brewer (0-2) allowed five hits.

George Kell, his back troubles apparently a thing of the past, grand-slammed in the third to get Chicago's rout of the Tigers started.

The Yankees climbed within one game of the leading Red Sox — along with Chicago and idle Cleveland — as Bob Turley (2-0) five-hit his former Baltimore mates.

Tigers-Kewpies Baseball And Track Saturday
Smith - Cotton thinclads are hoping for a large attendance at the track meet Saturday afternoon when they meet the Hickman high school track team of Columbia. Admission charges to be made will go to the track team fund to keep the boys over night at Hannibal on May 10. That will be the day and night the Central Missouri Conference track and field meet will be held.

The track and field meet Saturday will be a dual affair with Columbia.

In the morning the Tiger baseball team and the Hickman baseball team will clash in a Central Missouri Conference game. This game is to be counted in the Conference standing. Next Tuesday when the Tigers go to Columbia, that game is classed as a non-conference tilt.

April 29 the Tigers will go to Clinton to participate in the annual Clinton high school Relays. The meet will be held in the afternoon and night.

Dodgers Attendance Low Despite Showing
BROOKLYN — What does it take for the Brooklyn Dodgers to draw at the gate? Only 3,874 showed up at Ebbets Field yesterday when the Dodgers beat Philadelphia 14-4 to set a record by winning the first 10 games of the season.

Walter O'Malley, Dodger president, isn't concerned, however. "It's still early in the year and there are a lot of factors," he said.

Boston Will Wait Williams Out Until May 11th Cutting

BOSTON — Ted Williams, silent, retired slugger, casts a shadow over American League turnstiles while his former Boston Red Sox teammates concentrate on winning games.

The permanence of the baseball retirement Williams announced last season remains a subject of hot debate as Ted fishes off the Florida coast awaiting a war-neuroses divorce settlement.

Boston General Manager Joe Cronin and field boss Mike Higgins expressed hope through spring training Williams would show up.

Ted, 36-year-old master of a .348 batting average in 13 major league seasons, will be grumpy to the club if he returns. He's no longer part of the battle plan.

Williams has promised to deliver his decision to Cronin but hasn't contacted him yet. Are the Red Sox doing anything about him?

"We'll wait until May 11," Cronin says. "After that we'll have to do something."

That's the date squads must be pared down to 25 active players plus returning servicemen.

The people who pay to watch baseball miss Williams. Though Boston fans debate the extent the big guy could help the Sox, the simple fact remains he's a major drawing card.

Some 15,000 people gave Williams an ovation in his "last" game in September on a club finishing 42 games out of first place.

Only 8,000 showed up for the second game with the New York Yankees in Fenway Park on a sunny day last Friday though the hustling Sox were red hot.

Yesterday a mere 1,900 appeared in Washington to look at the league leading Bostonians.

Fans appear to be taking a wait-and-see attitude toward the 1955 Red Sox who are off to a flying start a game ahead of the pack with a 6-2 record.

To get and keep interest up, Boston must keep winning or give the fans Williams.

Perhaps the best rundown of the Williams situation was that of veteran Yankee Manager Casey Stengel in his recent visit:

"I like Williams. He's always been a great ball player. I thought he would be back. Any man that hits like Williams will help a ball club. You need those fellows that can get three runs at one clip."

"There are only two groups that don't want Williams back. They are some pitchers and some managers. He takes bread out of the mouth of some to hear them tell it."

Bill 'Moose' Skowron Hitting .471 Average
NEW YORK — Bill (Moose) Skowron was a platoon man last year, sitting on the bench when the New York Yankees faced a righthander. At the end of the year he had a .340 average.

"Maybe I did wrong with the boy, not playing him both ways," said Manager Casey Stengel last fall. "Maybe I'll do different next year."

Now it's "next year" and Skowron is playing every game no matter who pitches, and hitting .471. Against the righthanders, his average is .423. He has hit safely in all eight Yankee games.

"I always knew I could hit the righthanders better than the lefties," said the big righthanded hitting first baseman.

Santee Hopes To Obscure Rest of Meet

LAWRENCE, Kan. — Three baton teams shoot for World records in the annual Kansas Relays tomorrow but Wes Santee's try for a 4-minute mile will overshadow the entire field of 900 athletes.

Santee, who lowered his own American record to 4:00.5 at the Texas Relays three weeks ago, feels he can achieve his long-sought mark before a home state audience providing weather conditions are good.

The relays, which start today with five decathlon events, have attracted 26 schools in the university division, 31 in the college division and 13 in the junior college class.

Oklahoma A&M and the Universities of Texas and Houston will be aiming for global marks in the 440 and sprint medley relays.

The Houston quartet of Doyle Jones, Jerry Beck, Danny Boone, Larry McBride, already has tied the 440-yard relay record of 4:05 this spring. Texas will be making a co-assault on this mark with Dean Smith, Jerry Prewitt, Al Friedman and Bobby Whilden.

The Oklahoma Aggies' foresome of J. W. Mashburn, Jack Hays, Marion Muncieff and Bill Heard will be after a record in the sprint medley relay. The present mark of 3:20.2 is held by the University of Kansas. The Aggies came within one-tenth of a second of the record at the Texas Relays.

Twelve meet records will be in jeopardy. They include seven relays in the university class; the 880, mile and sprint medley in the college class and the javelin and Glenn Cunningham Mile.

Santee, who ran a 4:03.1 here last year, has traveled under 4:01 three times. Australia's John Landy holds the World mark of 3:58.

Kansas Coach Bill Easton gives Santee a good chance of hitting the 4-minute. The lanky runner will have two excellent pace-setters in Dick Wilson and Art Datzell, both University of Kansas milers.

His chief opponents probably will be Ted Wheeler, Iowa middle distance runner now at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo.; Charles (Deacon) Jones, University of Iowa freshman, and Bob Soth of Drake.

In addition to Santee, other defending champions entered in the relays include: Don Sneed, Kansas, javelin; Bob Van Dee, Oklahoma, discus; Jay Chance, Oklahoma Baptist, 400-meter intermediate hurdles; Erwin Cook, Oklahoma, hop-step-jump; Jim Podoley, Central Michigan, decathlon, and Rich Ferguson, Iowa, 3,000-meter steeplechase; Dean Smith, Texas, 100-yard dash; Gordon Holtz, Minnesota, shot put, and Leon Wells, Kansas, high jump.

Pastrano Meets Power Swinger Troy, Tonight
CHICAGO — Willie Pastrano, just a growing boy, and Willie Troy, a power swinger with 23 knockouts in 30 victories, match shots tonight in a scheduled 10 round bout at Chicago Stadium.

Pastrano, a product of New Orleans who now is boxing out of Miami Beach, Fla., will be making his second national television appearance. In his debut before the cameras a month ago, he disposed of Al Andrews in the same ring.

Willie's big middleweight test against New York Troy will be viewed over NBC starting at 10 p.m. EST.

Pastrano has had 37 pro battles, winning 30, losing 4 and drawing in 3. Among his victims, in addition to Andrews, are Bobby Dykes, Jimmy Martinez and Jacques Royer, French middleweight king.

Troy, a stablemate of heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano, has been in much faster company than his opponent. He has beaten, among others, Bobby Boyd, Walter Cartier, Moses Ward, Bobby Jones and Tuzo Portoguez.

Power Boat Champion
CONCORD, Calif. — Bud Wiget of this city is mighty proud of his Colonel Green Star Island Trophy, emblematic of the high point title in outboard motorboat racing in Florida during the winter. The 41-year-old walnut rancher compiled 2,000 points during the American Power Boat Association's campaign. Wiget had five consecutive wins in his C service runabout Crosswind.

SMALL-SIZED PREVIEW—Don Cockell, British challenger for Rocky Marciano's crown, runs into his first American resistance as Alan Pellegrini, aged two and a half, tweaks his nose at Oakland, Calif. It might be a preview of things to come when Cockell meets the Rock, May 16 at San Francisco.

Sports Roundup-- Jamaica Race of Summer Tan And Nashua May Spoil Derby

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK — There will not be a wet eye in the joint when the band stops tottling momentarily at Jamaica's down-at-the heels racing plant tomorrow and the announcer shouts "they're off" in the Wood Memorial. Chances are that not a single fan who paid his way in will be snoring in the grass behind the grandstand, for grass is scarce at Jamaica.

It will only be another rich horse race, with no blanket of roses or sweet peas awaiting the winner after a mile and an eighth of running.

The only thing which stands out about the Wood is that it shapes up as the greatest two-horse race in maybe the past 20 or 30 years, and that the result of the first 1955 meeting between the country's two sterling three-year-olds, Nashua and Summer Tan, might take much of the icing off the ballyhooed Big Three—the Kentucky derby, the Preakness and the Belmont.

The latter could happen if either of the glamor colts should prove himself the obvious master of the other at the increased distance they are being asked to go, only some two city blocks short of the derby route. That is, if either of them should open up a good space of daylight in the closing stages and win going away.

Scarcely a horse player who has been waiting impatiently for tomorrow's showdown expects anything of the kind to happen. The general expectation is for a pulsing, ding-dong struggle right down to the wire between the two finely conditioned animals. But there still is no guarantee that one or the other will not find the searing pace and the extra yardage too much to take and run out of wind in the stretch. The winner, in that event, would become a prohibitive favorite to snare the triple crown.

The farthest the pair raced against each other as two-year-olds was six and one-half furlongs, or 550 yards less than they will be asked to go tomorrow. They went the six and one-half three times, and Nashua's number went up twice, by a neck and by a head.

On the single occasion that Summer Tan prevailed it was a length and a half, which in their league practically amounted to a runaway.

A stroke off the pace with 65's were nine other professionals, including British open champ Peter Thomson of Melbourne, Australia; Dick Mayer of St. Petersburg, Fla.; Jerry Barber of Los Angeles; Leo Biagetti of Sandusky, Ohio; J. W. Stamps of Atlanta; Al Goodrich of Murfreesboro, N.C.; John J. O'Donnell of Norfolk, Va., and Marty Furgol and Porky Oliver of Lemont, Ill.

Signs of the Times
CHICAGO — "The simple signs are the easiest for a baseball team," says Marty Marion, manager of the White Sox.

Marion gives two reasons for his theory on signals. "First of all," claims Marion "if the signs are complicated your own players get so worried about getting them that it affects their play. Secondly, the simplest signs are the most difficult for the opposition to steal because they are always looking for the complicated ones."

John Serafin Shadow of Dad In Tourney
VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. — Is John Serafin of Pittston, Pa., just a flash in the pan or has the 25-year-old son of a famous professional "finally found his game to become a star on big time golf's tournament trail?"

The golf circuit's veterans and younger aces who already have established themselves as stars were asking this question today as play moved into the second round in the $17,500 Virginia Beach Open Tournament.

Serafin, who's played very little on the circuit, shot a five-under-par 64 yesterday to finish in a deadlock with veteran Ted Kroll of Utica, N.Y., for the first round lead in the 72-hole test over the 6,065-yard, par 69.

Nobody was more surprised about his performance than Serafin, whose father, Felix, has long been linked with big time golf and always made his way several years ago on the play-for-pay circuit.

Serafin, who finished 17th in the 1954 Greensboro open, carded five birdies with five, seven and 10 shots tonight in a scheduled 18-foot putts.

Kroll made seven birdies, two of them coming on difficult 18-foot putts.

A stroke off the pace with 65's were nine other professionals, including British open champ Peter Thomson of Melbourne, Australia; Dick Mayer of St. Petersburg, Fla.; Jerry Barber of Los Angeles; Leo Biagetti of Sandusky, Ohio; J. W. Stamps of Atlanta; Al Goodrich of Murfreesboro, N.C.; John J. O'Donnell of Norfolk, Va., and Marty Furgol and Porky Oliver of Lemont, Ill.

Democrats Ask Check On Secrets Disclosed In GOP Propaganda
WASHINGTON — Rep. Price (D-Ill.) called today for a full investigation of a booklet put out by Senate Republicans and assailed by House Democrats yesterday as a "shocking" disclosure of military secrets.

Sen. Bridges (R-NH) retorted the booklet "contains no classified military data whatever and expressly says so." He accused the Democrats of raising a false issue "in their anxiety to find something to criticize about the Republican administration."

The controversy raged around a pamphlet titled "National Defense and the Republican Administration—Today and Tomorrow." It was issued last month by the staff of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, headed by Bridges.

Jersey City, N.J. — Bernarr Macfadden, 86-year-old physical culturist, kicked up his heels and did an Irish jig last night on his release after three days in Hudson County Jail.

The former publisher finally managed to raise the $10,000 bond for his freedom. He had been in the jail since Monday in connection with alimony difficulties.

Being in jail was "damned unpleasant," Macfadden said.

It was his third wife, Jonnie Lee, of New York, who brought the proceedings against Macfadden. She claims he owes her $9,000 in back alimony.

Horror Movie Actor Requests He Be Sent To State Hospital

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Bela Lugosi, who won fame in the role of "Dracula" on the stage and screen, was scheduled for a hearing today in Psychopathic Court on his application for commitment to a state hospital.

The 71-year-old Hungarian actor, who ranked with Boris Karloff as the foremost purveyor of horror in movies, voluntarily signed himself into Los Angeles General Hospital yesterday as a drug user.

Psychiatrists said Lugosi is not a narcotic addict, however, and that he has been using a narcotic off and on over a period of perhaps 20 years as medication.

Lugosi, if his papers are approved today, can be committed to a state hospital, ostensibly for the purpose of breaking the drug habit.

Nationalists Reject Giving Up of Islands In Advance of Talks

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—High Nationalist Chinese officials rejected beforehand today any proposal that might be made for Chiang Kai-shek's forces to abandon the coastal island group of Quemoy and Matsu.

"Absurd — ridiculous — unthinkable — impossible," these officials said of Washington reports that the United States may seek a cease-fire which would mean giving up the islands to the Communists.

The officials declined to be named.

They said the question was a hypothetical one. They insisted that the United States had at no time suggested, directly or indirectly, that those offshore islands be yielded to the Reds, as were the Tachens.

There was no doubt, however, that there were forebodings even in top quarters as to the possible mission here of Asst. Secretary of State Walter Robertson and Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Judge Pleads Release Of Man He Convicted For Robbery Slaying

HARRISBURG, Pa. — A judge who sentenced William Kay to life imprisonment for murder pleaded before the state pardons board yesterday for Kay's release.

Judge L. Stauffer Oliver said that Kay, 30, and the winner of five battle stars in World War II, deserved "a lesser sentence" than that required by law.

Kay confessed the slaying, which occurred during a robbery attempt, after he returned from service. He told Judge Oliver that he hoped he (Kay) would be killed in the war because his conscience bothered him.

An accomplice has since been released from prison and Oliver told the pardons board "it didn't seem fair to me that two men should get such differing terms for the same crime."

Says US Cannot Drop UN

Hoover States Soviet Attitude Bars Worthwhile Changes In Charter

WASHINGTON, April 21.—President Herbert Hoover said today this country cannot abandon the United Nations even though the U. N. "has not fulfilled our hopes" as a mechanism for peace.

The former President told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, too, he no longer favors expelling Russia from the United Nations because of that country's repeated use of the veto.

Must Cope With Russia In UN

"I think we've got to go on and worry with the Russians in the U. N. in the hope that things will get better," he said.

About 100 spectators in the Senate Office Building caucus room rose and applauded when the 80-year-old Hoover appeared to testify on the question of revising the U. N. charter.

He gave the opinion that no worthwhile revision is possible unless there is "a great change in the whole Communist attitude."

Suggests Some Changes

But he did suggest some specific changes including a proposal that "all independent nations" should have membership in the U. N. He noted that 14 such countries have been barred by Soviet vetoes.

Hoover was not asked whether, under his proposal, Communist China could get into the world organization, but in 1954 he strongly opposed a seat for the Peiping regime.

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.), a committee member, told reporters later this question would arise—so far as the United States is concerned—only if this country gave diplomatic recognition to Peiping.

Prefers Chiang Representation

The U. S. position now is that Chiang Kai-shek government is the only one that can legitimately represent China in the U. N.

The next session of the U. N. General Assembly must decide whether a conference should be called to consider revising the 10-year-old U. N. charter.

The Foreign Relations Committee has held hearings in various sections of the country to get the general American reaction toward possible changes. Former President Truman appeared before the committee here last Monday. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt is scheduled to testify tomorrow.

Two Appointed To Missouri Supreme Court

JEFFERSON CITY, April 21.—Gov. Phil M. Donnelly appointed Henry I. Eager of Kansas City and Clem F. Stockman of St. Louis to the Missouri Supreme Court today.

Eager, former member of the State Board of Law Examiners, succeeds Judge George Robb Ellison, 73, who has retired because of physical disability April 1.

Stockman, a delegate to the 1943-44 constitutional convention, succeeds the late Judge Ernest M. Tipton, who died Feb. 25.

Both of the new judges named under the nonpartisan court plan are Democrats like the men they succeeded.

Donnelly chose the men from two three-member panels submitted to him by the Appellate Judicial Commission April 4.

On the panel with Stockman were Lyon Anderson of Webster Groves, presiding judge of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, and Paul W. Barrett of Jefferson City, a commissioner of the Supreme Court now. Barrett was the only Republican nominee on the two panels.

Knob To Hold Special Vote To Raise Levy

Will Try To Put Through Increase In School Levy

The Knob Noster school district will have a special election Tuesday in a second attempt to put through a 50-cent levy increase that was defeated April 5 by a vote of 193-192.

The total levy would be $2 if the levy increase is approved. This would be comprised of the $1 levy permissible by law without an election, 20 cents for the sinking fund, 20 cents for the interest fund, 30 cents for the teachers fund and 30 cents for the incidental fund.

It is the last two items which are being increased. Now the levy for the teachers fund is 10 cents and there is no extra levy for the incidental fund.

J. E. Jageman, district superintendent, explained that the increase is necessary because of an impending decrease in federal and state aid for teachers and incidental expenses.

For the past three years, he said, the state aid for the teachers fund has been based on the number of teaching units in existence at the time the reorganized district was formed three years ago. But according to law, he said, after three full years the district must now base its state aid on the average daily attendance, with one unit being allowed for every 32 pupils.

Recently several rural schools were discontinued and the pupils brought in to the new elementary school at Knob Noster. Some of the classes were quite small, Jageman said, but still each class was given credit for one teaching unit for state aid. Impending change to average daily attendance as a basis for aid means that fewer units will be allowed for the same number of children. It will mean a cut of $8,000 in state aid, since four units will be lost at a rate of $2,000 in aid each unit.

In addition to this decrease, Jageman said the federal government has also rearranged its administration of what it calls maintenance and operation aid, and this will result in a decrease of approximately $2,000 in federal aid for the Knob Noster district.

The election will be conducted in the Knob Noster High School auditorium, in which the polls will be open from 6 a. m. to 7 p. m.

Corsi, Jenner Clash

Sling Charges At Each Other In Hearing On Corsi Firing

WASHINGTON, April 21.—A Senate hearing exploded angrily today, with Sen. Jenner (R-Ind.) yelling charges of "smear" and "big hat" at Edward Corsi and Corsi accusing Jenner of unfairness and language "unbecoming a Senator."

Jenner and Corsi clashed at a Judiciary subcommittee hearing into operations of the 1953 refugee relief program and the firing of Corsi as a special assistant to Secretary of State Dulles on immigration problems.

Security Officer Silent

Sitting silently through the storm, a few feet away was R. W. Scott McLeod, State Department security officer and administrator of the program. Corsi was a deputy to McLeod for a short time during a 90-day tour with the State Department that ended abruptly on Easter Sunday.

Corsi is a prominent New York Republican. His ouster started a political whirlwind.

"Isn't all that is involved here your pride?" Jenner shot at Corsi. "You wanted a big hat and you wouldn't cooperate with anyone unless you could run the show."

"Unfair," Corsi protested.

Resents Implications

At another point Corsi said he deeply resented "stupid and malicious implications" by people in the State Department that "I was trying to glorify myself."

"The only glory I wanted out of this," he told the Senators, "was to put the program over."

McLeod has testified that Corsi told him confidentially of plans to run for a political office next year in New York. Corsi has denied any such intention.

Jenner hopped on Corsi for having said yesterday that McLeod was the leader of a "security gang" which had wrecked the program designed to bring 214,000 refugees and other nonquota immigrants into the United States by the end of next year.

Not First Attack On McLeod

Jenner said, "this is not the first time he's been attacked like that. Any American official who is doing his duty trying to protect the security of America is going to be smeared with that kind of language."

"I want to commend Mr. McLeod for his work. I think the title 'security gang' is an honorable title."

Corsi shouted back at Jenner that that was "unfair," too, and "unbecoming a senator of the United States."

The two yelled back and forth in unintelligible confusion until Jenner finally headed out of the packed hearing room to keep another appointment.

Board of Arbitration Votes Down Annexing Pleasant Green Area

A special board of arbitration set up to decide on the annexation of a portion of the Pleasant Green School district to the Knob Noster school district met last Tuesday and decided against annexation.

The proposal was approved by a vote of 331-30 by Knob Noster voters but the Pleasant Green vote ended in a 17-17 tie. The board was appointed by Johnson County Superintendent of Schools, Miss Nellie Wells, and was composed of George Eppright, Vern Rupp, Guy G. Goode and R. H. Boston.

Miss Wells stated she thought the question of a larger district annexing territory from a smaller district probably influenced their decision.

Smithton Purchases Truck, Equipment To Fight Its Fires

The Smithton Community Fire Association is getting lined up to give that neighborhood fire protection through purchase of a new fire truck and equipment. A Chevrolet chassis was bought at cost from the Smithton Motor Co. and apparatus is being installed to bat any fires that might break out.

While this is being readied, a used fire truck is available should a fire develop. The new truck will be in readiness in about 40 days.

Contract For Road Work On Pettis Rt. Y To Be Extended Into Johnson Co. To End Near SFB

A contract to complete Route Y in Pettis County and extend it west into Johnson County now has been awarded by the State Highway Commission to Griesemer Construction Co., Springfield. The contract calls for about 6.8 miles of grading, bridging and surfacing with crushed stone or gravel, from the present Routes Y and 127 junction, west of Sedalia west to Temporary Route D in Johnson County.

Work on the 5.3 miles in Pettis County will cost about $124,147 and the 1.5 miles in Johnson County about $9,841.

The improvement will begin at the end of present Route Y, at its junction with Route 127, about eight miles west of Sedalia, in Pettis County adjacent to properties of Roy Lange and John Ballah. It will extend west to a point adjacent to the Claude Blair and Roy Ray properties where a new location begins. New construction will extend westerly about 3,300 feet through or adjacent to the Lee Wimer, Charles Schobohm and Rosie Miller places. It rejoins the existing road adjacent to the Schobohm property.

It then follows the route of the existing road a short distance to a point adjacent to the Claude Blair property. Another relocation begins there and extends northwesterly about 1,700 feet through the Rail and Mrs. Fannie Rice places. A 190-foot I-beam bridge will be built on the new location over Muddy Creek, adjacent to the Rail property. New construction will rejoin the existing road adjacent to the Rice place.

On west, two more relocations will be made. One begins adjacent to the Guy Mahan and D. I. Sevier places and extends southwest about 1,500 feet through the Mahan, and Judge Peithman properties. It rejoins the existing road adjacent to the Peithman and A. E. Dorrance places. The other relocation, about 2,100 feet long, begins adjacent to the Peithman and Dorrance properties and extends southwest through the Dorrance and Roy Anderson farms. It rejoins the existing road between the Anderson and G. M. Lane places.

Work then will continue on west along the existing road to Bee Branch, where a double 9 by 8-foot concrete box culvert will be installed adjacent to the Richard Walders and Stayton Adcock properties, just west of the Johnson county line.

The project extends into Johnson County to terminate at a junction with Temporary Route D, adjacent to the William Lyle place, near the southeast corner of the Sedalia Air Base, about four miles south of U. S. Route 50.

This Route Y improvement is among others in 31 counties covering 145.9 miles of highways on which the Commission now has awarded contracts under its March 25 bid call. The work, to cost about $3,901,324, covers 32.1 miles of major systems in five counties and 113.8 miles of supplementary roads in 26 counties.

Diem Sees Need For National Assembly—Recommend Viet Nam's Diem Call Quick Elections To Stem Any Political Crisis

SAIGON, South Viet Nam, April 21.—A growing number of individuals and parties are urging Premier Ngo Dinh to call quick general elections in South Viet Nam as a solution to the dangerous political crisis which confronts his government.

These persons and groups, which include members of his own Cabinet, assert that a popularly elected government—the first in Viet Nam's history—would provide the psychological shock needed to rally the masses against communism.

Impossible At Present

Diem has replied that he recognizes the need for a popularly elected National Assembly but the divided state of South Viet Nam makes it impossible at this time.

Instead he has called for creation on May 15 of a provisional National Assembly indirectly elected and representing every class and shade of political thought except the Communist Vietminh. Its powers would include the very important one of approving or rejecting the national budget. But it would not be able to form and dismiss governments.

Diem's opponents, the Binh Xuyen Society and the religious sects, as well as some of his own associates, say the Assembly must have full power to draw up a constitution as well as accept or reject future premiers.

Urges Provisional Govt.

One of the most outspoken of Diem's ministers on this subject is Nguyen Van Thoi, minister of planning and reconstruction. His office has released letters he wrote the Premier urging him to form a provisional government which would arrange for the elections three months from now. He offered to resign to help the Premier form this government.

Highly placed American sources asserted today the United States may cancel its multimillion-dollar military and land reform programs in South Viet Nam should Diem's political enemies force him to resign.

Decline To End L & N Strike

The striking nonoperating unions declined to end the L & N strike as requested by a conference of Southern governors.

In another L & N development, the National Mediation Board asked management negotiators to return to Washington. Chairman Francis A. O'Neill said the board had "some new ideas to help them reach a settlement."

An explosion of dynamite near an L & N bridge failed to damage the structure. Likewise a stick of dynamite tossed at the feet of two pickets failed to explode.

The strike began over provisions of an employee health and welfare plan.

Closes Electronic Plants

In Lake Success, N. Y., the Sperry Gyroscope Co. closed its three Long Island electronic manufacturing plants as a strike by the CIO Electrical Workers Union passed its third day. The union seeks a pay raise of 18 cents an hour in a new contract while the company is offering 12 cents spread over three years. Present wages average $2 an hour plus 4 cents in welfare benefits.

An estimated 1,500 employees crossed the picket lines at Sperry Thursday. But renewed violence in connection with the crossing led the company to close the plants until further notice.

The union local has 9,300 members. In addition there are 3,500 supervisors and 2,400 engineers idled.

Foresee Request To Yield

Nationalists Guess US Envoy Will Ask Surrender Of Matsus, Quemoy

TAIPEI, Formosa, April 21.—Some worried Nationalist officials today guessed that a U. S. envoy now flying to Formosa will ask them to yield Quemoy and the Matsus without a fight.

The reason for the hurry-up visit of Walter S. Robertson, assistant secretary of state, was not known here.

There were reports in Washington Robertson would sound out the Nationalists on a cease-fire line in the middle of Formosa Strait. The Nationalists have opposed any cease-fire.

Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, is accompanying Robertson. Radford has opposed withdrawals from offshore islands. Some Nationalists even guessed there was a U. S. decision to defend the islands.

However, Robertson has frequently been the bearer of what the Nationalists consider bad news. He was here last fall. There followed a "castal sanctuary" ruling which stopped the Nationalists from attacking the Red mainland by sea or air.

Nationalist from President Chiang Kai-shek on down have vowed to defend both Quemoy and the Matsus, 120 and 140 miles from Formosa.

A Nationalist official said privately he was as surprised as Washington by the "fiendish speed" with which the Reds are building airfields across Formosa Strait.

He said it was "fiendish" because only by driving slave labor at great speed could the Reds build up the fields so fast. Four are reported nearing completion within easy operational range of Formosa.

The official said that supply lines to these fields—whose competition had not been expected for months—also were completed or nearly finished.

Furthermore, he said Red planes already are at both ends of the Formosa Strait or would be soon. Press reports yesterday said 800 Red planes—including late model Russian jet fighters and twin-jet bombers, have been moved along the southeast coast of Red China.

The official declared that the key to peace in this part of Asia rests on U. S. Nationalist control of Formosa Strait. The Communists now threaten to seize air control. This, he added, would be worse than the loss of Quemoy and Matsu.

He recommended a quick move to match the Communists gun for gun and plane for plane.

"Every time they open a new airfield and put another batch of planes in operation we must increase our capacity similarly," he said. "Otherwise, our control of air and sea will be gone."

Soybean Futures Finish Strong On Grain Board

CHICAGO, April 21.—Grain and soybean futures were strong on the Board of Trade most of the time today although profit-taking cut into the advances near the finish.

Wheat was more than a cent a bushel higher part of the time and soybeans more than two cents.

Wheat closed unchanged to 1 cent higher, corn unchanged to 3/4 cents up, oats 1/4 to 3/8 cents higher, rye 3/4 to 1 1/4 cents higher, and soybeans 1 1/2 to 2 cents higher.

Lack of rain in the drier areas of the Southwestern winter wheat area caused buying in wheat. Export news was another bullish influence. Israel bought an estimated 350,000 bushels of U. S. red wheat, and the United Kingdom purchased moderate amounts of domestic spring wheat.

Mrs. John Robert Wilhelmy

Miss Jane Boul, John R. Wilhelmy Repeat Vows In Formal Ceremony

At half past nine o'clock Monday morning, April 11, Miss Kathryn Jane Boul exchanged marriage vows with Mr. John Robert Wilhelmy of St. Louis, at Sacred Heart Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. J. Brunswick. The altar was set with palms, Easter lilies and large bouquets of Easter lilies while smaller bouquets of white snapdragons, gladioli, and carnations adorned the communion rail.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude L. Boul, 620 West Third, and the bridegroom's parents are Dr. and Mrs. Glenn E. Wilhelmy of Tucson, Ariz.

Mrs. Marie Paxton, organist, accompanied Mr. Al Domingue as he sang Gounod's "Ave Maria" at the offertory and the Sacred Heart Church men's choir when they sang high mass in honor of St. Joan of Arc. Other organ selections included "Mother Beloved," "Mother At Your Feet Is Kneeling," "On This Day O Beautiful Mother," "The Wedding March" by Lohengrin and Mendelssohn's "Wedding Reccessional."

Mass servers were John L. Boul, brother of the bride, and Theodore Meyer, cousin of the bride.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father wore a gown of Rosepoint lace and white bridal satin fashioned with a snug fitted bodice, long tapering sleeves and a high V neckline scalloped in the pattern of the lace. The very full skirt of white satin was lavishly trimmed with a panel of matching lace which extended from the waistline over the cathedral train. Her fingertip illusion of nylon net fell from a plateau of white satin bordered with matching lace and trimmed with tiny pearls. She carried a cascade of Easter lilies centered with white orchids and tied with a shower of white satin.

Miss Regina Boul, DePaul School of Nursing, St. Louis, was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a floor length gown of pastel blue Crystalate designed with long torso bodice and very full skirt. Her headress was a pearl trimmed bandeau of matching velvet with face veil of nylon tulle. Her cascade bouquet of red roses was tied with blue satin matching her dress.

Miss Beverly Warren, Denver, Colo., Miss Mary Alene McQuie, Louisville, Ky., and Miss Margaret Mack, Little Rock, Ark., were bridesmaids. Their gowns in pastel shades of mile green, pink and maize, were designed identical to that of the honor attendant's. Their bandeaux were in shades matching their dresses and they carried cascade bouquets of white gladioli florettes.

Mr. Robert Owen Andrews, St. Louis, served Mr. Wilhelmy as best man. Groomsmen were Mr. Arthur S. Brewster, Lawrence, Kan., Mr. Claude L. Boul, Jr., St. Joseph's College, Collegeville, Ind., brother of the bride, and Mr. John V. Brown II, Kansas City, Mr. Firmin D. Boul, brother of the bride, Mr. Jay Bundy, Tucson, Ariz., and Dr. Ben Kozikowsky, St. Louis, ushered.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Boul chose a mauve pink lace dress contrasted with navy accessories and corsage of white French carnations. Mrs. Wilhelmy, mother of the groom, was attired in a slate blue dress complemented with pink hat, white gloves and corsage of pink roses. Mrs. V. L. Boul of Fontana, Calif., grandmother of the bride, had a corsage of white gardenias.

A wedding breakfast was served at the Old Missouri Homestead to the wedding party and immediate families. Bouquets of tulips, snapdragons and carnations were used as table decorations.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents from noon until 3 that afternoon. Large bouquets of Easter lilies and white carnations were used as decorations throughout the home.

The three-tiered cake topped with a miniature bride and groom centered the bride's table. Gardenias and greenery was used to encircle the cake. The tablecloth was caught up at the four corners with gardenias.

Miss Annette Moser, Winona, Minn., and Miss Barbara Lamy, St. Louis, served at the reception. Mrs. Don Richardson was in charge of the guest book.

For traveling the bride chose a blue suit and navy accessories.

A white orchid corsage was pinned at her shoulder.

The bride is a graduate of Sacred Heart High School and attended St. Teresa's College, Mineola, Minn., and Webster College, Webster Groves. Prior to her marriage she was employed at Desloge Hospital, St. Louis.

They will reside in St. Louis.

Dr. J. Cannaday Has Birthday Celebration

Thursday was Dr. J. E. Cannaday's 80th birthday anniversary and all morning he had callers.

In fact it was 2 o'clock in the afternoon before he could get home. There were gifts and cards and flowers. Every year Mrs. J. A. Chadwick sends him a bouquet of red roses from his own greenhouse and this year she ordered the lovely gift for him, as usual, which helped to give his office a party look.

There was a cake, too, baked by Mrs. Albert Dirck, that was decorated and had on it the number eighty.

The fact that the day was Thursday and most of the offices on that floor are occupied by doctors, the real party was postponed until Friday afternoon, since Thursday is the afternoon the doctor's offices are closed. This was all right with Dr. Cannaday, it only prolonged his party, and he had still more callers which he liked. There was ice cream and cake served, too, so all in all, it was one of the very best birthdays yet.

Top Performers Here-
Wood's Opera House Staged
First Major Circuit Shows

The era of live stage entertainment gradually grows dimmer in the memory of Sedalia's older residents, and for the younger generation it has only been a part of what Mom and Dad term as "those good old days."

Theater today means for most of us Marlon Brando, Grace Kelly, the Gabors, Marilyn Monroe, Clark Gable, Ava Gardner, Tyrone Power, Gloria Swanson and John Wayne, to name a few.

The local movie houses are still theaters, but they bear little resemblance to the Sedalia theaters of yesteryear.

Sedalia's first show house was probably the old Smith Theater on Main Street. Then came Wood's Opera House, which was located where the Terry Apartments are today. One of Missouri's largest and most ornate shows, the Wood's Opera house presented such extravaganzas as "Ben Hur" with actual chariot races on the stage, and other Schubert circuit shows. With the turn of the century smaller theaters sprang up in the city, but not until 1905 was a show worthy of Wood's competition built.

Constructed at a cost of more than $57,000, the Sedalia Theater was opened Sept. 22, 1905, with W. M. Chamberlin as president, F. C. Zehrung, vice-president, and George F. Olendorf, who resided in Sedalia, secretary-treasurer.

"Peggy From Paris" was featured as the opening play, with seats priced from 25 cents to $1.50. The grand formal opening was held Friday, Oct. 6, with 40 box seats selling for $25 each, first row balcony seats at $10, and other second balcony seats sold from 50 cents to $1.50. The show was the musical comedy, "Piff, Paff and Pout," which contained such popular song hits of the day as "Bedelia," "Mr. Dooley," "Under the Goo Goo Tree," "Luties" and "Cordelia Malone." Stars of the show were Fred Mace and Kathryn Osterman.

The Sedalia Theater was connected with the Chamberlain-Crawford circuit playhouses, and every one of the buildings 1,571 seats were filled for such shows as "Camille," with Grace Howard.

The new $1,000,000 Missouri-Pacific shops in Sedalia opened almost simultaneously with the theater. S. M. Dolan was master mechanic at the shops then. Ringling Brothers circus had just been in the city, somewhat minimizing the glory of the theater's opening, but it failed to cut the attendance.

A member of Battery C of the 868th Field Artillery Battalion, he successfully completed a five-week course in leadership, map reading and other military subjects.

Hughes attended Central Missouri State College in Warrensburg and is a member of the Alpha Phi Omega fraternity.

In 1906, the Airdome Theater, which featured vaudeville for ten to 20 cents was opened by the Dubinsky brothers. The Crystal Park Theater brought in the customers with some of the first motion pictures to be shown in this area. For ten cents the Crystal Park could present you with a free chance on a rocking chair to be given away at the Saturday night showing, and scenes of the San Francisco earthquake and fire which were guaranteed to tingle your spine.

In 1915 the Sedalia Theater was still going strong even though it had the competition of the old Lona, Electric and the Iris Theaters. The new Lona Theater was built later on the southwest corner of Fifth and Ohio and showed films with such enticing titles as "The Wild Olive," a powerful story of the Alleghenies with Myrtle Stedman.

It was 1915 when you could buy the latest model of the Maxwell, for $595 and the City Light and Traction Co. was offering an electric heater to keep your car engine warm while the vehicle stood in the garage, with an operating cost of one cent per hour. Mary Pickford and Victor Moore were co-starring in "Little Pa," and Buffalo Bill visited Sedalia in person.

The Sedalia Theater scene in 1920 was parading an array of hits before the public. Vaudeville was the main attraction, although films were also featured occasionally. Jack F. Truitt was manager of the house at that time and employed about 35 persons. William S. Hart, Mary Mile Mintor and a group of local musicians who called themselves the Queen City Trio were brought to the public on film and in person.

The New Lona Theater, later the Liberty, was expanding, and a new $25,000 pipe organ was installed. Franklin D. Roosevelt and his wife, Eleanor, were among the famous personages to visit the city that year. F.D.R. was campaigning for the vice-presidency of the United States. He addressed Sedalians from the Lona stage on Oct. 9. Mrs. Roosevelt was introduced as the former Miss Eleanor Roosevelt, daughter of the late Theodore Roosevelt. The future president of the United States shared the theater bill that afternoon with "Ernstwhile Susan," with Constance Binley.

It was 1924, and Sedalians went to the Strand and Liberty Theaters to see Hoot Gibson, Billie Dove, Buck Jones, Gloria Swanson in such thrillers as "No Mother to Guide Me," "The Soul of a Beast," and "Tiger Rose." The Liberty was forced upon occasion to advertise sorrowfully proclaiming that there would be "no performance on account of film failing to arrive" on time.

In 1930 the Sedalia Theater featured vaudeville only on Sundays and the double feature was yet to arrive. Weekday films starred MONUMENT TO THE PAST—The Old Sedalia Theater's 1,571 seats were filled for such shows as "Camille," with Grace Howard in the early 1900's. The theater, once on the Chamberlain-Crawford circuit of playhouses, started a policy change in the 1920's with vaudeville augmented with early film attractions. The depression years brought additional changes and finally the management closed its doors. Other local show houses met the same fate and only a few survived those lean years. Even the younger Liberty met death in later years, and today both are only memories of what was once an exciting era.

Frank Fay, Lilyan Tashman, Rin-Tin-Tin and Walter Huston in "The Bad Man." Constant Bennett was jarring them at the Liberty.

The Kansas City Blues came to Sedalia that year to play the Sedalia Athletics in the "Little World Series," and the Sedalians took the three game series with two wins.

The later 1930's found the Sedalia theaters on the rocks. The buildings changed hands many times, closed for periods of redecoration and then re-opened, only the opening never carried the excitement and glitter that was so

M. U. Has Students Enrolled
From Every County In State

All Missouri counties have students enrolled among the 7,737 now in the Columbia divisions of the University of Missouri.

In addition to the 6,890 Missourians now enrolled, there are also 746 students here from 42 other states and the District of Columbia, 17 from four United States possessions, and a total of 84 from 31 foreign nations.

Of the 114 counties, St. Louis County has the largest number of residents enrolled with 956, and when this is combined with 573 students from the City of St. Louis it makes a total of 1,529 students here from Metropolitan St. Louis.

Jackson County, which includes Kansas City, ranks second in number with a total of 762, and this is followed by Boone County, home of the University, with 687 enrolled. Cole County has 156 residents on the Columbus campus, Buchanan has 132, Jasper has 115, and China again leads the foreign Greene County has 191, to complete the counties having more than 100 students here. There are 59 students from Pettis County.

Of the other states which have students enrolled here, Illinois leads in number with 174. New York ranks second with 64, followed by Arkansas with 43, Kansas with 40, Texas with 36, and Iowa with 32.

The only states not represented in today's enrollment are Delaware, Nevada, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, and Vermont.

Hawaii leads the four United States possessions with 11 students now attending classes. Alaska has 1, Puerto Rico 3, and Panama Canal Zone 2.

The nationalities represented among the student enrollment, as it has in past years, with 11 students, much a part of the local theaters in earlier years. The interior of the Sedalia Theater was changed and the second balcony was lost when a false ceiling was constructed to reduce a heating problem.

Today the Old Sedalia Theater stands idle, except for sections of the lower floor that houses small offices. The old signs that once called attention to the stately building are now faded almost beyond readability and the memorable nights of entertainment that were once set on the 60 by 40 foot stage are gone forever.

Florence Hert Realizes Life Long Dream
Teaching Music To Hundreds Of Students

Even though she was born in Ohio, Miss Florence Hert belongs to Sedalia. She just doesn't know anything else but Sedalia because she has been here since she was two years old.

Growing up in a musical family, music has been a very wonderful part of her life. Her father, Prof. W. B. Hert, who died a short time ago, was "Mr. Music" in Sedalia for many years, and under his training many boys and girls went out to make names for themselves in the world of music. Her mother, too, is a musician as is her brother, Bill, who specialized on the drums. So it isn't strange that with so much music in the home and her talent for it, Florence won a place for herself in her home town with her violin. But, of course, she plays other instruments as well.

There comes a moment in every musician's life when they wonder just what to do with the music. This came to Florence and since she thought she would enjoy working with children she made up her mind to teach music in a school. When she had been graduated first from Christian College at Columbia and then from Missouri State College, Warrensburg, she had only one place in mind to teach. That was Sedalia. She had several reasons for wanting to come to her own home town to teach and the fact that it was her own home town was the biggest. Her family was here, her friends were here and she knew Sedalia had a good school system.

She wasn't looking for a glamorous job. There aren't any, really. The jobs that have the light of glamour radiating from them are won by those with rare ability and talent. But beneath it are the two same little words that go with any other job — hard work. Those two little words spell success in any job and the more glamorous the job the harder the work, for glamour only comes to those who reach the top in their profession. It flashes brightly for a few years and then dies down in a land that is filled with hero worship but quickly forgets when the light fades.

This is not true with the teaching profession. The flash may not be as brilliant but it is more enduring. It exists as long as one of their pupils lives and perhaps even longer if the impression they leave upon the child they teach is deep. Often the wisdom and the guidance goes on down with little family stories through generations.

It seemed almost too good to be true when Florence applied for a position on the Sedalia school faculty and was accepted. Of all things she found herself teaching at Broadway School where she had gone as a little girl. And of course teaching what she loved best — music.

"I try to give the children a foundation and musical background so that they may have a deeper appreciation of music now and later," says Florence Hert. That is why it was such a thrill to her when recently a senior in Smith-Cotton came to her after the last symphony concert to tell her that she was responsible for his appreciation of music. Although he does not play an instrument he was there to listen and was enjoying that concert. It takes three kinds of music lovers to make a success of any musical entertainment, the composers, the performers and the listeners, and without listeners to appreciate the concert, it fails.

Miss Hert teaches vocal and instrumental music at Broadway school, vocal for the entire school. Kansas City Council
Taps Firms, Drivers
For More Revenue

KANSAS CITY — The City Council has tapped business firms and motorists for more revenue.

The Council voted Friday night to increase the gross receipts taxes and to raise parking fees. The move is expected to yield about $685,000 more revenue annually.

Mayor H. Roe Bartle said the increases were needed to avoid cutting the 1955-56 budget drastically. The mayor will appoint committees to seek revision of the tax structure and to obtain more revenue.

Parking meter fees, formerly a penny for 12 minutes and 5 cents an hour, now will be 5 cents for 30 minutes and 10 cents an hour.

Business occupation licenses will cost $5 cents on each $1,000 in gross receipts, an increase of 10 cents.

Gross receipt taxes of the Gas Service Co. and the Kansas City Power & Light Co. were raised to 6 percent from 5½.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. will pay a flat $175,000 increase above its present 5 percent tax.

St. Louis Man Tells Shooting Of 3 Women

ST. LOUIS, April 21.—A 29-year-old man said he shot three women in a little more than an hour early today after he accosted them and was rebuffed in separate incidents, police announced.

One of the women died.

The man, identified by police as Guy Nolan, a Negro machine shop employee with no previous criminal record, was quoted by Joseph Casey, assistant police chief, as saying "I just blew my top."

One Is Slain

Mrs. June A. Lytz, 51-year-old operator of a massage and bath parlor, was found sprawled face down in a Parkway area, dead from a gunshot wound in the back, about 6 a. m. Two persons reported they heard a shot in that area about 12:30 a. m.

Mrs. Helen Forrester, 34, a waitress, and Mrs. Luvida Hodge, 22-year-old Negro, were wounded. A Negro cab driver also was fired upon but uninjured during the early morning hours.

Traced By Car License

Police said Nolan was traced through a tip on the license number of the car used during the early morning shooting spree. They would not say who furnished the tip.

Police said Nolan told them he fired at Mrs. Lytz after "she called me names." The body was partially concealed by a hedge and a policeman discovered it when he noticed Mrs. Lytz's pet dog, which was standing by the body.

Shot Shortly After Midnight

Miss Forrester was shot in the thigh about 12:20 a. m. after she said, "the man had called her 'hey, baby' and she told him to leave. Police said Nolan told them he 'just got sore' at the woman.

Nolan told police, they said, that "I just shot" Mrs. Hodge after she rejected his order for her to get in his car. This occurred at 1:30 a. m.

Nolan was picked up at the machine shop where he works—some 12 hours after the shootings.

Police said he admitted the shootings after a .38 caliber revolver and a box of cartridges were found in his room. Nolan is married and has a small child.

AEC Approves Contractor For Power Plant

WASHINGTON, April 21.—The Atomic Energy Commission tonight announced it has approved the selection of Ebasco Services, Inc., as architect-engineer and construction management contractor for the Dixon-Yates power plant at West Memphis, Ark.

The action, which the commission said was taken by majority vote, seemed certain to stir up a new storm of criticism over the controversial contract between AEC and the Dixon-Yates group.

The AEC said its approval of Ebasco, a New York engineering firm, for the job followed settlement of a disagreement over fees on another plant, which Ebasco built at Joplin, Ill., for a group of private utility companies known as Electric Energy, Inc. The Joplin plant was built to help supply power for the big AEC installation at Paducah, Ky.

"The commission unanimously regards the settlement as satisfactory and as complying with its policy," the AEC announced by Acting Chairman Willard F. Libby said.

Sentenced To 10 Years Each In Prison For Labor Racketeering

ST. LOUIS, April 21.—Peter B. Higgins Sr. and Henry Schmidt, former business agents for the AFL Teamsters Union here, today were sentenced to 10 years each in federal prison for labor racketeering.

They were convicted by a federal district court jury March 18 of extorting $1,800 from two pipeline contractors in 1951-52 on promises they would guarantee labor peace on pipeline projects.

Sentencing had been delayed because Higgins suffered a heart attack after the conviction. Judge Roy W. Harper said today he would insist that Higgins be sent to the U. S. Medical Center at Springfield, Mo., for a complete physical examination.

Both of the former business agents were permitted to remain at liberty under their $25,000 bonds until Monday.

Seek To Pull Check On Income Tax Returns

JEFFERSON CITY, April 21.—The state department of revenue wants to pull a one-shot, $200,000 check of federal income tax returns to pull in up to $1½ million in undeclared state income taxes.

M. E. Morris, director of revenue, said today he has asked the Senate Appropriations Committee for money to run the check this year, photographing all 1954 federal income taxes filed from Missouri.

Estimates have been made that from 100,000 to a million persons are not filing state income tax returns. Morris called the million figure "ridiculous" and indicated it would be closer to 100,000 at the most.

Sen. John W. Noble (D) of Kennett said his Senate appropriations committee has decided to add the $200,000 to the revenue department's appropriation.

Morris said all 1954 federal income tax returns from Missouri would be photographed, except for those which obviously would not make the individual eligible to pay the state tax. That will take about a million photographs, he said.
